1989 Fall Championship Show

Locke, McCauley Capture Holstein Grand Titles

BY PAT PURCELL

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Excitement and anticipation filled the Penn State University Ag Arena as class after class of outstanding dairy cows challenged the seasoned show judge, Loren Elsass, at the 1989 Pennsylvania Holstein Association's Fall Championship Show on Friday, September 8.

Breeders, exhibitors, and students marvelled at the high quality animals which made this one of the best Fall Championship Shows in the past several years.

Elsass, a Holstein breeder from Wapakoneta, Ohio, shared the crowd's enthusiasm at the tremendous line-up. The PHA was honored to have Elsass judge this show. His herd, Quietcove Holsteins carries a rolling herd average of 21,600 pounds with a BAA of 106.5 and his list of accomplishments is equally as impressive. He has judged in 34 states as well as in Japan, Mexico, Costa Rico and

Kuhn Inspires PennAg Banquet Group

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

CHAMPION (Westmoreland Co.)—An inspirational talk by Bowie Kuhn, former baseball commissioner, provided the summary of the mountain top experience here at Seven Springs Resort, this week. The occasion was the 111th PennAg Convention that featured talks by renowned experts, a Bavarian festival, the annual golf tournament and relaxation in mountain setting.

Kuhn told the final night banquet group that he could have had no way of knowing his speech to this large Pennsylvania agribusiness group would be prefaced by so great an event as the Pete Rose case and the untimely death of baseball commissioner Bart Giamatti. Kuhn said leadership is the moral courage to make a vision practical.

"It's imperative that we have a vision that goes to the moral," Kuhn said. "And it was right that Giamatta was the commissioner of baseball and that he was the one to make such a seismic decision for

Youse Family Honored In Berks County

BY VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — "Farmers will always be important in the state of Pennsylvania. It has something to do with spirit. You know that it is more valuable than all the material goods in the world. As members of the farming community you know that better than most," Lt. Governor Mark Singel told the audience at the 34th annual Outstanding Farm Family Awards Banquet held last Wednesday at the Fleetwood Grange. Singel assured the audience of over 200 that the state government appreciates its family farmers. "There is a bipartisian committment to continue the family farm in Pennsylvania," he added.

Singel also congratulated the agricultural community and Berks County in general for their land preservation efforts. "You have taken a leading role in securing local funds for land preservation. The effectiveness of your efforts has made Berks one of the leading counties for land preservation in the state. We hope to feel the effect of these efforts in the near future," Singel said.

The Lt. Governor lauded the values displayed by family farmers as part of the cure for the state's social ills. "We have a drug problem in Pennsylvania. Will we beat it? YES! But we can't do it by spending a lot of money, or slo-

Salute American Hampshire Association Centennial

BY LOU ANN GOOD

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — The American Hampshire Sheep Association marks its 100 year anniversary on November 10 through 12 in Louisville, Ky. But before that, 12 centennial and futurity shows are being held from the West to the East Coast.

Keystone International is hosting a special celebration for the Hampshire breeders in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware.

Clyde Brubaker, the AHSA director for the eastern states, said, "Keystone International has added premiums to make KILE a very special show and to celebrate the 100 years of the Hampshire breed."

•There's a special futurity show where nominated sheep will be shown and judged for the Futurity $1,000 Give-away. Both senior and junior members must show their nominated sheep in the regional shows to be eligible for the national futurity show.

•The Hampshire Ancestral Tree drawing, which shows the origin of Hampshires in England and the changes that have occured since then, will be displayed and sealed

Acres Corn Update

Corn futures prices closed sharply lower this afternoon under pressure from fund long liquidation fueled by sharply lower wheat prices. Today's settlements were from 2-3/4 to 5-1/2 cents lower in heavy volume. Prices were fractionally mixed this morning after yesterday's neutral to slightly bearish report with added pressure coming from the absence of fresh demand. Wheat prices plunged on news that the USDA is expected to announce this week a proposal to allow producers to plant 110% of their base acreage. Losses in September were pared by strong cash basis levels and late harvest ideas. December dropped 5-1/2 cents and settled at $2.29-1/2 after trading in a range from $2.29 to $2.35-1/2.

Acres Soybean Update

Soybean futures prices settled sharply lower this afternoon with selling tied to technical indicators after a neutral to bearish crop report. Some pressure was attributed to news that several traders in Ferruzzi's Paris office had been dismissed with additional selling seen in response to steep losses in wheat. Further pressure was in response to new forecasts calling for clearing weather in the midwest over the next week. November closed out today's session 10-1/2 cents lower at $5.75 after trading in a range from $5.73 to $5.92. September was 15-1/2 cents lower at $5.86-1/2

Acres Wheat Update

Wheat futures prices plunged from 8 to 14 cents lower today, making the largest single price decline in months and set new contract lows in March, May and July. Heavy sales were tied to fund long liquidation fueled by talk that the USDA was expected to make an announcement this week that producers would be allowed to plant 110% of their base. Further pressure was linked to wire service reports that the USSR had made all their grain purchases for this year. September closed 8 cents lower at $3.85 while the new crop months dropped from 10-3/4 to 14 cents.

Acres Cattle Update

Live and feeder cattle futures closed mostly higher this afternoon with October fats 20 weaker on professional long liqui-

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

Get your ticket to superior performance by contacting your local Hoffman sales representative or our Landisville office. Call toll free 1-800-233-0137. In PA: 1-800-732-0456.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 18-24, 1989

Woodchucks hibernate.

Sept 18, 1851, the first issue of The New York Times is published . . . Sept 19, 1928, Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse first introduced in Steamboat Willie cartoon . . . Herring spawn only once a year, just before the autumnal equinox, Sept. 22 . . . Average length of days for the week 12 hours 14 minutes . . . Babe Ruth makes his farewell appearance with the New York Yankees, Sept. 24, 1934 . . . One of these days is none of these days.

Ask the Old Farmer: When something unusual happened, my grandmother would say, "My goodness, cut a notch in the crane." What did she mean? N. C., Conn.
Whaling boats carried smaller boats which were lowered from wooden davits, known then as cranes. The crews would notch the crane to keep track of the number of whales killed.

Home Hints: Mix salt and vinegar into a paste to clean stained marble. Rinse with water

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: This and that. Cloudy and cool, that's the rule. By mid-week, though, expect a change: clear and warm is the new rule of thumb.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cloudy and cool, just like in New England. Then it's clearing and unseasonably warm. Who wants seasonable anyway?

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear and pleasant for the first part of the week. Then intermittent rain takes over, locally heavy, but it's warmish

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Showers are heavy in the south; cool temperatures predominate. Then more rain, heavy in the east, then the west.

OPINION

Real Cost Of The Apple Scare

Now that some of the dust has settled on the Great Apple Scare of 1989, we need to ask ourselves what the cost has been. And who among us is paying. Not the cost to apple growers; we know they've lost millions already. And not to apple processors or food retailers, who may be able to survive short-term crises like these.

American taxpayers are bearing part of the cost. As taxpayers, you and I are going to foot the bill for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's recently announced purchase of $15 million worth of surplus apples. A small price for the government, perhaps, but an expenditure brought on solely by the fact-less apple scare. Also, we will bear the cost of economic hardship felt by the hardest-hit apple growers, many of whom will go out of business and won't be around to compete in future years. Growers have lost as much as $56 million in irretrievable or delayed apple sales during the last three months.

Jay Vroom, executive vice president, National Ag Chemicals Assn., says that while we ponder the financial costs, we should also count the nutritional costs. Five to seven million boxes of apples currently are in storage around the country. If consumers — especially America's children — are not eating healthy, nutritious apples, what are they eating?

In our system, industry is held responsible for its products and actions through complex regulatory and legal checks and balances designed for the common good. When mistakes are made, companies must bear the costs imposed by federal agencies or the courts. Everyone accepts this. But what happens when self-anointed watchdog groups like the National Resources Defense Council (NRDC), the group that started the apple scare, create a panic? They answer to no one, not even the government; they are not subjected to the same stiff fines when their actions result in public harm.

Ironically, organizations like the NRDC usually are the only groups to profit as a result of fear-mongering. Experience shows that following alarmist reports by these groups, their memberships and donations initially increase as a worried public turns to the alarmists themselves for information and guidance. Groups like the NRDC really set themselves up as shadow regulatory agencies. Playing on the public mistrust of government institutions, they constantly churn the waters to assure their own special-interest survival.

So the next time you pass the apple bin in your local grocery store, grab a few to take to the checkout counter. Despite the fear-mongering, apples are safe to eat. Besides, whether you take some or not, you'll be paying for them.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Be Careful During Silo Filling

Two problems occur during silo filling time. One is overloading wagons causing broken spindles, twisted frames and bent axles. Corn silage is heavy this year and overloaded wagons crossing ditches or ruts in fields causes excessive strain on equipment. If your wagon is full when you are only half way around the field, change wagons; the "down time" to make repairs is more costly than the time to change wagons.

The other problem is "silo gas". I've discussed it before but it is important enough to review again. One farmer called to inform us that chickens walking under the chute of his recently filled silo dropped over dead from the gases coming down the chute. These gases can develop from one day to 14 days after the silo is filled. Most of these gases have a chlorine-laundry bleach odor. Some are yellow and some are colorless. Don't take any chances -- never enter a partly filled silo without running the blower for at least 15 minutes. These gases are heavier than air and will come down the chute into the barn. For more information on how it affects your lungs, contact the Lancaster County Lung Association. Be very careful around recently filled silos.

To Control Weeds In New Alfalfa

Recent growing conditions have favored the growth of alfalfa and weeds. In many cases the broadleaf weeds will crowd out the small alfalfa plants, if not controlled. Early seedings of alfalfa without a nurse crop need some weed protection.

One practice suggested in the Agronomy Guide is to spray with 2, 4-DB when the weeds are one inch tall. This will knock out the broadleaf weeds without harming the alfalfa plants. Follow label directions.

If the weeds are permitted to develop larger, they will be hard to kill without hurting the alfalfa. Alfalfa seeding is expensive; this investment needs protection by controlling the weeds. Many good stands of alfalfa have been ruined by excessive weed growth.

To Store Pesticides Safely

Most producers are about finished with their spray materials for the year. Many of these can be held over until next year with good results. However, it is always best to buy only enough for one season at a time. When storing spray materials, always keep them in their original containers and away from children, pets and livestock. It is best to have a separate room or building for pesticide storage. Wettable powders are easy to store; however, emulsions and liquids may be harmed by freezing weather. Producers are urged to follow the label and instructions in this respect. It may be necessary to keep some of them in a heated building. Be sure they are not near feed supplies because accidents can happen. Pesticides kept in a room or building under a lock is a good way to prevent costly mistakes and tragedies.

To Check Fan Louvers

Fan louvers on poultry and swine operations should close tightly when a fan is not operating. If they don't air will enter through the open louver and be discharged by the nearest running fan, giving you no ventilation value.

When the fan is on, louvers must be fully open; otherwise, they will restrict the flow of air from the building. Tests have shown that a little dust on fan louvers can restrict air flow by more than 1,000 c.f.m. per fan. A restricted fan operates longer and bears a heavier load using more electricity, which costs money.

In many cases, you can repair louvers that are sticking open or shut just by cleaning them and applying oil or rust solvent to the hinges.

TURN AND LIVE

Background Scripture: Ezekiel 34: 1-31.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 9: 35-38.

Often it is assumed that in taking the step between unbelief and Christian discipleship there is but one great chasm there to be crossed: belief in God. Actually, however, there are two great chasms. Belief in a Creator God is only the first of two great leaps that must be made and many find it easier to comtemplate than the second: the conviction that the Creator God is also a Father God who loves each of us.

A scientist who came to Dallas to speak to the Isthmus Institute told me that his work in science had helped him move from absolute atheism to an "uneasy agnosticism." "The more I learn about this world," he told me, "the harder it is for me to believe that there is not some Great Mind behind it all." He went on to say: "But to believe that the great Mind has created and sustains the universe also knows and cares about me, that is something I cannot fathom."

INCREDIBLE CONVICTION

The Judaic-Christian claim of a personal Father-Redeemer-God does seem incredible. If you have never been awed by the wonder of that conviction, you haven't given it much thought! I confess that it has occupied my mind with some frequency since my earliest days. Often it has been when I have contemplated the sheer majesty of God as the creator and sustainer of the universe and tried to reconcile those thoughts with the comparatively insignificant concerns with which I come to God in prayer. As a college student, for example, I frequently wondered how the Lord of Creation could possibly concern himself with my pleas for help in passing a tough exam, let alone millions upon millions of others like me with their own personal agendas.

Yet, incredible as that claim may seem, it is one that is a recurrent theme in the Bible. God the Father is the picture that comes to us through Jesus in the four gospels. But there are similar pictures in the Old Testament and none are more compelling than that of the Good Shepherd in Ezekiel 34. The God we find in this chapter is awesome, not for His creative power, but for the sheer magnitude of His love. This is a love not only for humanity in general, but each of His children in particular.

Note the particularity of his concern: "I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the crippled, and I will strengthen the weak...I will provide them with prosperous plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land..." (34:16,29). Like the good shepherd, God is concerned about the everyday needs of members of His flock.

SHEPHERDS OF ISRAEL

This 34th chapter of Ezekiel is not only a prophecy of consolation and hope to those who have suffered, but a warning to the shepherds of Israel, the leaders who have served themselves and neglected the people. "Ho, shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep?... The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the crippled you have not bound up, the strayed you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought, and with force and harshness you have ruled them" (34:4). Is it not a warning also to us in this day when taking care of one's self seems to be the ultimate universal obligation.

Not only does Christianity present a God who loves each one of us as if there were but one of us to love, but who requires of us the same kind of love and compassion.

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

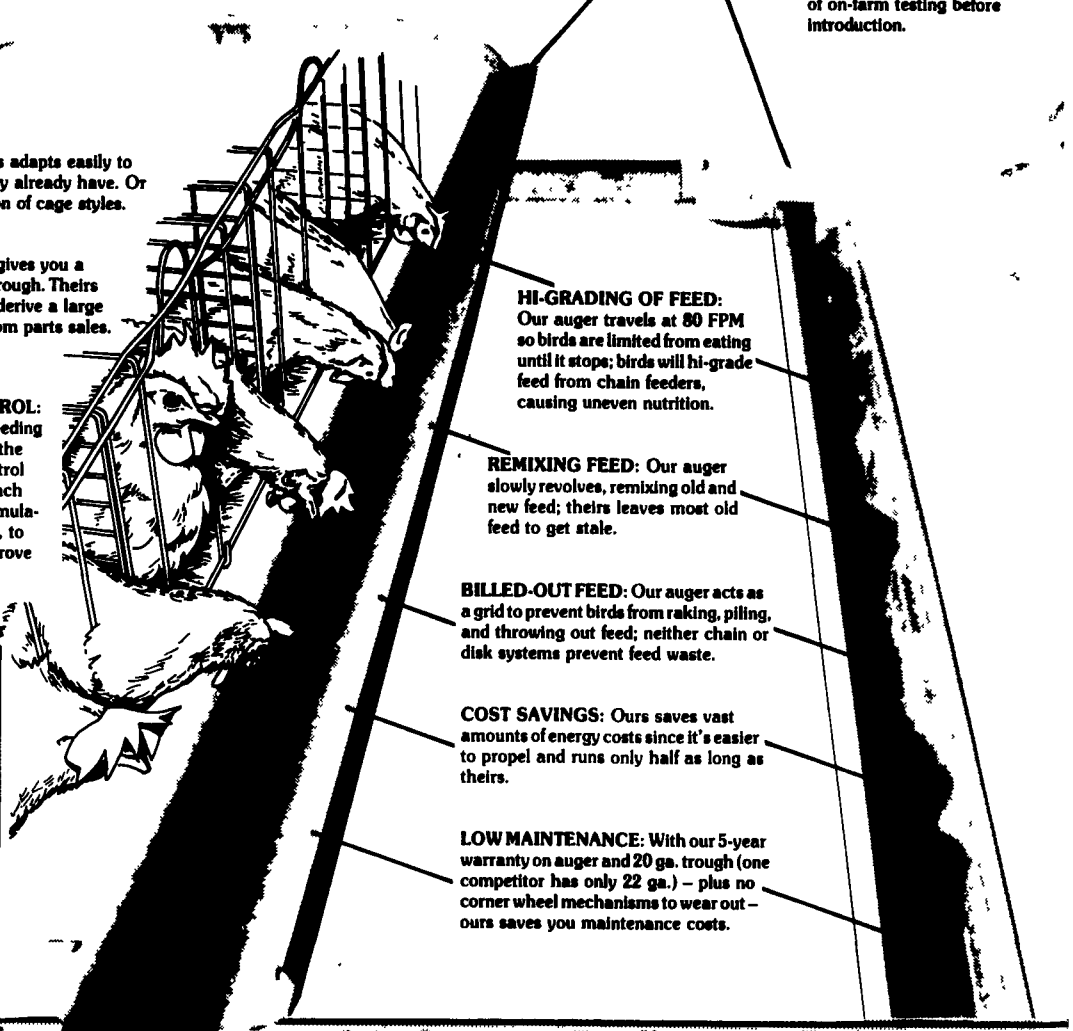
PROVEN DESIGN: Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.



HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

dation tied to concerns over hefty fed cattle weights. Support on the opening was tied to short covering fueled by reports of active fed cattle sales. Deferred support was attributed to concerns over tight supplies this winter. Feeders were lifted by yesterday's crop production figures which indicated larger than expected corn supplies. Oct. live cattle settled at $72.02/cwt after tradingi n a range from $71.92 to $72.47 while September feeders were 38 higher at $83.00/cwt.

Acres Hog Update

Live hog futures ended mostly higher today, gaining ground on firmer cash hog prices and continued expectations for reduced marketings once harvesting get under way. Further support was attributed to profitable packer operating margins. Gains were held in check by falling wholesale product prices after this past week's large kills. Bellies were lower under pressure from lower fresh belly prices and last week's lower than expected out movement of bellies from out-of-town warehouses. October live hogs closed 55 higher at $39.75 after trading in a range from $39.20 to $39.80.

baseball as the Rose case."

Kuhn said the tradition of baseball not to be involved in gambling went back to the 1919 Black Socks. And the length of time it took to develop the Rose case was not, as one reporter suggested, an embarrassment to baseball. Rather, the length of time was a verification of the fairness of the baseball system and the qualities of leadership shown by Giamatti.

"Giamatti was deliberately fair with Rose, and he refused to be stampeded until he had provided the ultimate in fair play," Kuhn said. "He gave Rose every possible chance to be informed of the evidence against him and to defend himself over whatever period of time it took.

"The product of great moral leadership inspires us all," Kuhn said. "Whether you agree or not, the people who express their moral convictions inspire the rest of us." Kuhn said it remains to be seen if President George Bush's talk about 1000 points of light can inspire us to provide the private climate, initiative and goodness needed to deal with the problems of the homeless, AIDS victims, kids in the womb, and all the people in this country who are in desperate need.

Kuhn concluded with a story from his weekly volunteer work, in an AIDS hospital in New York City. "I work there, give out juice and ice, hold hands with these most misbegotten people of our society," Kuhn said. "They are the closest to the lepers of the New Testament you can get. Not very many volunteers are there, but there are a few of us."

At the request of one of the blind patients, Kuhn said he read scripture to her. "All the travails I had experienced seemed like nothing," Kuhn said. "I came away enormously uplifted by her."

On a question from the floor, Kuhn said he had used Rose as a symbol of what a person can do

Parts For Older Massey-Ferguson Conventional Combines Available

RACINE, Wisc. — Massey-Ferguson has purchased the manufacturing technology, tooling and related parts for conventional combines formerly owned by Massey Combines Corporation to insure continuing parts availability for older M-F 500, 700, and 800 Series Combines.

"This is a major purchase that will enable Massey-Ferguson dealers to continue parts and service support to owners of older M-F combines," said Bob Beaman, general parts sales manager, Massey-Ferguson Parts Division. "We have also appointed a project team to focus on maintaining adequate parts inventories for this harvest season and future years."

More than 27,000 parts are available for these older combines built within the past 12 years, with most-needed parts now at Massey-Ferguson dealerships. Dealer backup inventories are in place at 13 Massey-Ferguson parts distribution warehouses throughout North America.

with talents by determination to excel. But he said that now, while the sports writers will do what they will, he could not see how Rose could be elected to the baseball hall of fame especially with the Giamatti situation hanging over his head.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Robert Patton from Monsanto Ag Products division discussed the issue of bovine somatotrophin (BST) in relation to animal nutrition and the future of this product of biotechnology. Patton said we haven't done anything to the cow, only to the bacteria that produce BST. "BST is 100 percent just like you find it in the cow," Patton said. "Nothing has changed. If we inject BST, the cow keeps her peak production longer, but when the production curve comes down, it does so in just the same way as a cow without BST would do. The cow regulates her metabolism just like she has always done.

"You hear that you get 20 to 40 percent more milk," Patton said. "That's true depending on the level of production. You get 10 to 12 pounds of increase regardless of what the cow is producing. So, if like the Russians, your cows only give 20 pounds of milk, you are happy to get a 50 percent increase. But a 100 pound cow will get a 10 pound increase too. It's not a percent increase but a pound increase."

Patton said that you get a larger response in mid-lactation and first calf heifers do not respond as well as older cows because they use some of it for growth just like heifers have always done. BST increases blood flow to the mammary gland and increases fat mobilization off the cows back and puts it into the blood stream. So, when you get more nutrients to the mammary system, you get more milk. But BST has no direct effect on the mammary gland.

Patrick Boova

Joseph Calhoun

Dr. Samuel Hays

"Cows don't get thin on BST," Patton said. "They just eat more. This means that you can still use the old feeding table requirements. In addition, BST cannot hurt humans. If you accidentally inject yourself with it, nothing will happen to you.

"We need to explain to consumers that milk normally contains BST, and it always has contained it. In England where the BST controversy received big play, even in the soap operas, milk consumption increased, Patton said. "We must tell people that they enjoy the cheapest source of food in the world, and we are not out to poision them. We need to say there is nothing wrong with the intelligent use of pesticides, nothing wrong with drugs and hormones if used correctly."

Canada and this year he will add Spain, England and Australia to that list.

The crowd quieted as Elsass scrutinized the class winners for selection of the grand champion in the open show. The center of the ring filled with potential champions. Into the center Elsass pulled Woodbine Valiant Marty, the number one 5-year-old and best bred and owned, exhibited by the Knight family of Woodbine Farms in Airville. Waterboro-Hill S-W-D Lucie, the best-uddered in the 4-year-old class came to the center. Lucie is owned by Robert and Candace Morrell of Cochranton.

Elsass pulled in Queen Star Sexy, owned by Tom McCauley of Elizabethtown. Sexy earned her distinction as a queen. McCauley's 8-year-old reigns as the Total Performance winner of the show. This is the first year this award has been presented. The selection is based on the cow's total milk and butterfat production as well as her show achievements. The award was sponsored by Woodbine Farms of Airville in memory of George Knight, Jr. and presented by Mrs. Priscilla Knight. Queen Star Sexy has produced 132,000 pounds of milk in her lifetime and is presently milking an enviable 29,165 pounds of milk, at 4.2 percent of butterfat with 1,211 pounds of butterfat.

Lockway Ivy Plato owned and bred by C. Richard & Georgianna Locke of Mercersburg, made her way to the center of the ring. This 4-year-old, was the best bred and owned in her class and a total performance winner with the second best udder in her class. Lyncholm Valor Pixie, the senior 3-year-old, also was joined the potential champions. Pixie, owned by Ann & Curtis Day and Kingstead Farms of Shippensburg, was named best uddered in her class, and a total production winnner.

A cheer went up from the crowd when Lockway Ivy Plato got the slap from Elsass for grand champion in the 1989 Fall Championship show. McCauley's Queen Star Sexy followed in the reserve grand champion spot.

"This 4-year-old has such a tremendous frame, a lot of style and dairy character and moves very well on her feet and legs. She has so much style and balance," said Elsass of the champion. "And this aged cow is an easy winner with so much frame. This is a tremendous cow. She is a long, stretchy cow. This 4-year-old has the advantage here today in youthfulness."

The junior yearling of James and Nina Burdette of Mercersburg captured the open junior championship. Windy Knoll View Count Noreen out of Modik Valiant Count-ET and Windy Knoll View Falcon Nona, was also best owned and bred. Elsass picked the yearling on her height, angularity and on her perfect set of legs.

The reserve junior title went to a senior heifer calf, E-Ricks Sultan Prestige, sired by Puget Sound Sultan and dam was E-Ricks Sooner Presto. It was a close placing for the titles. Elsass admired the tremendous width of chest and correct bone structure on the senior calf. Owner-breeder is Andrea Bednarski.

Junior titles in the junior division went to an outstanding pair of junior yearling heifers. A close placing in the class brought Elsass back to that class for his champions.

Karen Kauffman's Sukavin Starbuck Jessica took the title. The champion was also a best bred-and-owned winner. Jessica is the offspring of Hanoverhill Starbuck and Sukavin Stewart Joy. Jessica was followed by Derrwyn Count Alicia, shown by Ryan D. Meyers of Chambersburg. Breeder on the reserve junior champion was Gary L. & Brenda C. Derr. Sire is Modak Valiant Count-ET and dam is Derrwyn Sexy Alice.

"We have several outstanding young animals out here, but these junior yearlings are both strong loined and both stand on a real good set of legs," said Elsass.

Farm Credit Sees Black Ink

BY BOB MILLER
Farm Writer

What a difference a couple of years can make! Following its record losses in the wake of the agricultural depression, the Farm Credit System has battled back, redesigned itself and become profitable again.

Although Farm Credit directors are quick to point out that there is still a way to go, the revitalized System's economic strength is good news for all farmers and ranchers in rural America, since the recovery has fostered increased competition among ag lenders, benefitting all borrowers.

Just how far the System has come is seen in 1988's net income of $704 million, compared to a combined three-year loss of $4.8 billion for 1985-1987. The upward trend continued in the first quarter this year, with net income of $176 million, up $11 million from the same period a year ago.

According to Sam Eberly, chairman of the Farm Credit Corporation of America, the agriculture sector is in much sounder shape than it was two or three years ago. "Improved economic conditions have made it easier for most farmers to pay on their debts, which in turn has helped turn our banks and associations around," he said.

"The health of the System reflects the health of agriculture," Eberly noted. "When times are tough for farmers, it's typically tough on the System as well. In effect, what's good for farmers is good for the System, and vice-versa."

The improved ag economy is only one reason for the System's recovery, however. Another is Farm Credit's own commitment to meet the changing needs of farmers and ranchers. "This really is a new System," Eberly said. "We've listened to what members really want: things like an improved pricing system, fixed- and adjustable-rate loan products and higher standards in customer service -- and these are all in place and working."

The System's recent reorganization is also yielding a more efficient credit delivery System for borrowers. Mergers, consolidations and reduction in overhead have helped reduce operating costs $60 million in 1988 alone.

One Farm Credit program which has made a big impact in rural America is the restructuring of more than 62,000 problem loans valued at $8.8 billion. "Whenever possible, we want to keep farmers and ranchers on the land," Eberly said. "Our commitment to work with these troubled borrowers has also assisted in our recovery."

Another big factor in the System's recovery has been the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987. Although there were those who criticized the $4 billion in assistance authorized by the Act, it appears that their reservations were unwarranted. Less than one-fourth of the available government assistance has been used up to now, and the System will repay Uncle Sam over time for all aid.

Researchers Closer To Pre-Selecting Sex Of Livestock

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A new sperm-sorting technique has resulted in sex-selected rabbits, taking livestock producers a step closer to preselecting the sex of cattle, sheep or swine, a U.S. Department of Agriculture researcher reported today.

"We have separated intact living sperm from rabbits into male- and female-producing batches and--for the first time--produced live births when we surgically placed the sperm into rabbit does," said animal physiologist Lawrence A. Johnson of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Today he reported results of experiments, conducted with biologist James Flock and animal physiologist Harold Hawk, at the 22d annual meeting of the Society for Study of Reproduction in Columbia, Mo. During the experiments over the past year, 50 rabbits were inseminated with sorted sperm, said Johnson. All three scientists work at the ARS Reproduction Laboratory, Beltsville, Md.

"Batches sorted to consist of female-producing sperm led to more than 90 percent female offspring in rabbits," he said. "And batches sorted as male-producing sperm resulted in male offspring 80 percent of the time.

The technique is complicated, using fluorescent dye, lasers and static fields, but it works because female (X-chromosome-bearing) sperm have slightly more genetic material than male (Y-chromosome-bearing) sperm, Johnson said.

"Being able to preselect the sex of livestock could improve the economics of livestock production and management," he said. "It would also speed genetic improvements, since many genetic traits, such as growth rate, are closely associated with sex."

The researchers have inseminated sows with sorted batches of X- and Y- bearing boar sperm. That work is not complete, but 75 percent of the offspring have been of the desired sex, he said. Studies with cattle and sheep are under way.

In the sperm-sorting technique, he explained, sperm cells are stained with a flourescent dye that attaches to the DNA. Then, inside a machine called a flow cytometer/cell sorter, dyed sperm pass single file through a laser beam.

The beam causes the sperm to glow, but X-bearing sperm give off more light because they carry more DNA than Y sperm. Optical detectors collect the light given off by each sperm cell and the light to a computer.

After the sperm pass the laser beam, they are encased in microscopic droplets of fluid. The computer places a positive or negative electrical charge on each droplet--positive for Y sperm, negative for X. The sperm/droplet then enters on electrostatic field, where X and Y sperm are pulled away from one another and fall into separate chambers.

The sperm are then used for insemination. Some of the sperm are also reanalyzed for DNA content so Johnson can predict the sex ratio of the offspring from the time of insemination.

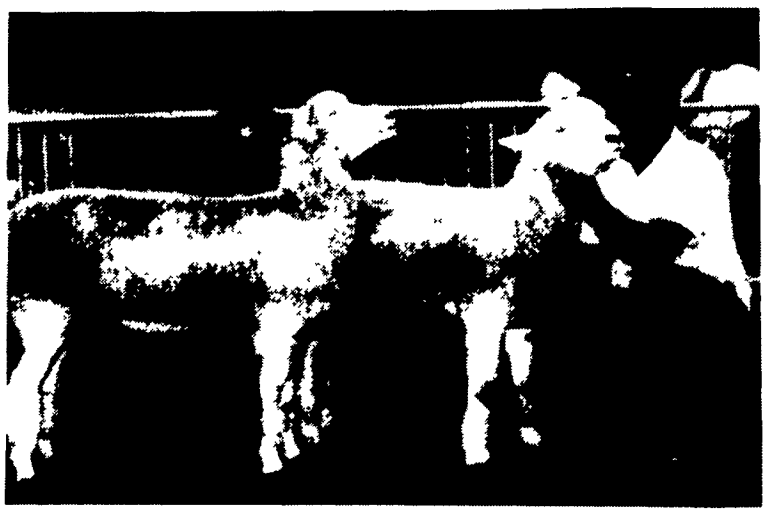
Oxford, Hampshire Are Supreme Sheep At York Fair

Already a champion at the Sussex County, N.J., and Allentown fairs, the yearling Oxford ewe exhibited by Jason Bixler was named champion at the York Fair as well.



Cathy and James Haines hold the champion Corriedale ewe, left, and ram. The couple owns the ram lamb, while their daughter Jennifer owns the ewe fall lamb.

This trio of champions was exhibited by Stacy Suffel of Carlisle. From left, Stacy holds the champion Hampshire ram, John Fought has the reserve champion Dorset ewe, and Mike Koehler holds the reserve champion Dorset ram.

Both champion Cheviot ram and ewe were owned by John Eaton Jr. of Red Lion. His father holds the ram, while his mother, Janet, was handler of the ewe.

BY LISA RISSER

YORK (York Co.) — After two days of stiff competition, an Oxford and a Hampshire were named the supreme champions of the York Fair open breeding sheep show. Judge Dirk Wise of Penn State tapped Jason Bixler's Oxford to be the top ram and Ken Lewis' ewe to be the supreme female.

Lewis, who showed as a part of Lewis Hampshires of Mount Joy, had both the champion and reserve champion ewe in the Hampshire class.

Bixler showed both champion ewe and ram and reserve champion ewe in the Oxford competition, a repeat of last year's accomplishments. His champion pair, both yearlings, also were champions at the Sussex County, N.J., and Allentown fairs.

The Cheviot champions were owned by veteran showman John Eaton Jr. of Red Lion. Eaton had last year's Cheviot champions as well, and this year's pair, both yearlings, also were champions in the FFA show.

Jerr Glen Farm of Hustontown paraded out the champion Columbia ewe. Their yearling has won a number of titles already including 1988 Fulton County champion ewe and 1988 Great Lakes Rambouillet/Columbia Show champion ewe. Matthew Zerby of Beavertown won the remaining three championship titles in the Columbia contest.

A fall lamb owned by Jennifer Haines of Myersville, Md., went home with the champion Corriedale ewe honors. Her competitors were Cathy and James Haines, who had the remaining champions. The ewe previously had been named champion at the Montgomery County, Md., Fair, while the ram won a pair of ram lambs class with another Haines sheep.

Jenny Zerby of Beavertown showed a ram and ewe that bested Stacy Suffel's entries to be the champions of the Dorset division. Suffel's reserve champions were yearlings. The reserve champion ewe also was the reserve grand champion at the 1989 Maryland State Fair.

Fifteen-year-old Suffel, who has a 30-head flock of Dorsets and Hampshires, had a junior ram lamb that was named champion in the Hampshire competition. Suffel, a Carlisle resident, has shown numerous champions over the years, including champions at KILE and Farm Show. The reserve champion ram was owned by Henry Zerby of Beavertown who also showed the reserve Hampshire ram at last year's York Fair.

Carly Kelly of Wellsville dominated the Merino division and had the champion and reserve champion ewe.

Three of the four Natural Colored championships went to Robin Sharer of Debold Farm in Sabillasville, Md. Her champion ram and ewe were reserve champions at the Sussex County, N.J., Fair, and the ram was reserve champion at the Maryland Sheep & Wool Expo. The reserve champion ewe was owned by another Maryland exhibitor, Randy Irwin of Freeland.

Beverly Hayes of Red Lion handily won the Rambouillet classes. Her spring ram lamb was named champion ram.

The champion Shropshire ewe was shown by Deb Etzler of Beavertown with the other top titles going to animals from the Goldstar Livestock flock. The two exhibitors also competed with

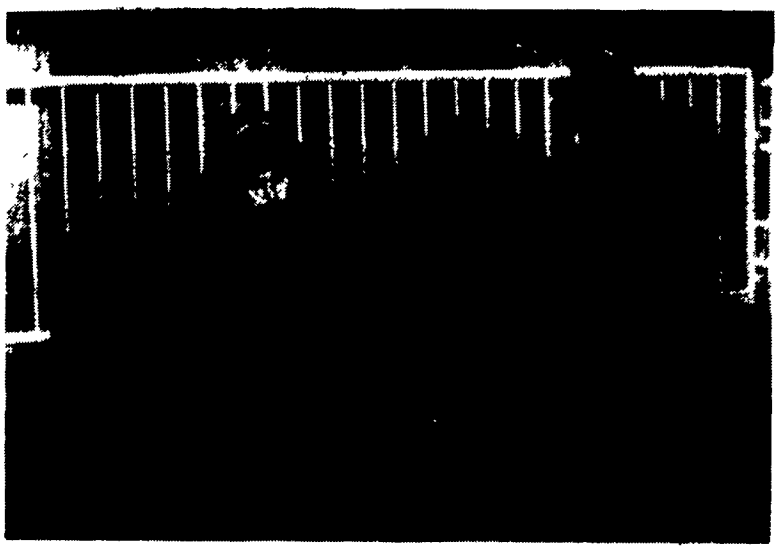
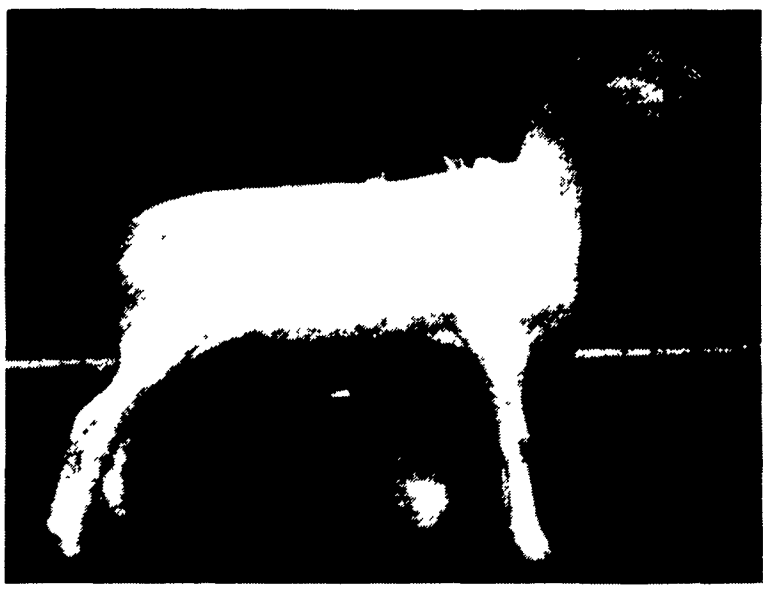
This spring Rambouillet ram lamb, exhibited by Dan Hayes of Red Lion was the champion in its division.



The champion Natural Colored ram and ewe were exhibited by Debold Farm of Sabillasville, Md. Robin Sharer, left, holds the ewe, while Butch Sharer has the ram.



Henry Zerby showed the champion Dorset ewe for owner Jenny Zerby of Beavertown.

each other in last year's fair splitting the championship honors.

Young Matt Trostle of Red Lion and Luke Zerby of Beavertown vied for the champion titles in the Southdown division. Zerby showed the champion ram while 10-year-old Trostle had the reserve. In the ewe championship match, the results were flopped with Trostle's yearling taking the purple rosette.

The top Suffolk honors stayed in York County with Julie Kern and Paul Leader eaching having a champion and reserve. Kern's yearling ram, Frosty, is her first champion breeding sheep in the three years she's been a 4-H'er. But he is not the 11-year-old's first champion: last year she had the grand champion lamb at the county roundup. Kern also showed the fair's reserve champion ram.

Leader, from York, showed both champion ewes, continuing his long-time winning streak.

RCMA Suspends Over-Order Pricing In Some Areas

BATAVIA, N.Y. — The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency, announced this week that, effective immediately, it was suspending RCMA over-order pricing in federal Milk Marketing Orders #2 and #36 and unregulated areas of New York and Pennsylvania. The RCMA Executive Committee and the newly formed Pricing and Marketing Committees will review the issue of re-establishment of RCMA over-order pricing in these areas on a monthly basis to determine when market conditions will permit RCMA to establish a new premium pricing program.

The decision to suspend the RCMA over-order pricing in these areas is the result of market conditions that exist in these regions. During recent months, RCMA has been confronted with overwhelming resistance to the payment of the RCMA price by dealers purchasing milk for the Class I (fluid) market, who consider themselves in an unfavorable competitive position with Class II dealers who do not pay the RCMA over-order price. Class II milk is used for making dairy products such as cheese, yogurt, butter and ice cream. RCMA recently conducted negotiations with Class II dealers in an effort to establish an RCMA Class II price, but such negotiations were not successful.

The RCMA over-order price of 65 cents per hundredweight will continue to be collected by the cooperative for milk sold in the federal Milk Marketing Order 1, which is primarily the New England states, and in western New York. The price collected from those regions will be distributed among farmers who ship milk to those markets.

In the future months, RCMA plans to work toward increased membership throughout the 11 northeastern states in an effort to strengthen its membership base.

The cooperative is in a healthy financial position to continue its operations at its office in Batavia, N.Y.

Later in the week RCMA announced the following information meetings where membership leaders and staff will be on hand to answer questions.

How can you spot a sensible farmer?

He owns an M-F 283 tractor.
It has only the basic features he needs, such as live 540 rpm PTO with ground speed and advanced Ferguson hydraulics. It doesn't have the unnecessary "bells and whistles" that drive up the price on other tractors.

He has a "portable tractor cab."
It provides shade even before he gets on his new M-F 283, and a great view of the advanced Ferguson hydraulics in action.

He doesn't have a pillow.
He doesn't need it . . His new M-F 283 has a full size, adjustable spring-suspension seat.

He wears suspenders and a belt.
It makes good sense to always have a backup in case one breaks. The same is true of tractors, unless it's a dependable, easy-to-service M-F 283 backed by the M-F parts and service network

He has a fishing rod.
With the M-F 283's powerful 67 hp* Perkins diesel engine, hydrostatic power steering and 8-speed transmission to speed fieldwork, he has more spare time and energy for some sensible recreation

He has a sharp pencil.
He discovered that the M-F 283 was a bargain up front, and when he figured resale value, parts and service costs, and fuel economy, the best buy for the long run, too.

bids taken for the 98 limited editions. Two of the drawings by Tom Swearingen, an artist from Kansas, will be auctioned on Friday, November 10 in Louisville. Sealed bids, starting with a $50 minimum, may be given to the regional show contact person or mailed to the AHSA office postmarked no later than November 1. The sealed bids will be opened one week prior to the auction.

•White polo shirts depicting the centennial logo are for sale and must be worn by showman in the futurity, junior and national shows. Suspenders, hats, slate clocks and slate coasters with the centennial logo will also be offered.

•Prizes totalling $150 will be awarded to five breeders who do the best job of decorating and housekeeping at their pen exhibits.

•Centennial items promoting the breed are available for purchase at the Hampshire Booth at the the North end of the the show ring.

•The Keystone Lead Line Contest is opened to those modeling wool outfits.

•The Hampshire Yearling Bred Ewe & Ewe Lamb Sale.

•A Hampshire Buffet at the Farm Show Cafeteria at 4:30 p.m. is opened to all interested persons and not limited to Hampshire breeders. Tickets are $6.50 per person and can be purchased that day.

•Junior Hampshire show at 10 a.m. on October 8, is the last event for the special activities.

Clyde and his wife Dorothy have been staunch supporters of the national Hampshire organization for 30 years. The Brubakers have held numerous offices as president and directors. As a national board member Brubaker served three terms of three years each as director of the eastern district. He will retire this fall since by-laws forbid another term on the executive board.

Clyde and Dorothy met through 4-H sheep showing. The Brubakers started their Blu-Acre Hampshire Farm with three ewes and a leased ram in 1959. Thirty years later, the Brubakers own 50 head and share stud rams with their daughter Sarah and her husband Tim who have an additional 50 head.

Brubaker said, "Hampshires are all purpose sheep with quality and dignity. They are a medium wool sheep that is best known for their meat."

When the Brubakers first started their breeding business, Dorothy recalls that she needed to help lambs kneel to nurse from their mothers. Now growth patterns have changed and allowed the lambs to nurse standing up. At one time Hampshires weighed more than 400 pounds but now they average 300 to 350 pounds.

Brubaker said, "One the remarkable points about the Hampshire breed is that it has been able to change over the years to meet the market demand."

The Hampshire breed evolved in southern England from cross breeding with the Old Hampshire, Berkshire Knot, Willshire Horn and Southdown sheep along the border of Hampshire County.

Farmers continued through selection to improve the Hamsphire Down, which was considered far superior to any other sheep.

In the early 1920s to '30s, the market demanded short, fat lambs that were low set and had blockage. Now the trend has gone in the other direction. Breeding has allowed the Hampshires to maintain their good qualities such as the genetic ability to efficiently convert forage into meat and fiber, ease of lambing and rapid gains while becoming a lean carcass lamb with meat and muscling and fine flavor.

In 1889 the Hampshire Down Sheep Breeder's Association was established in Salisbury, England and the American Hampshire Down Sheep Association was organized. Today the organization is called the American Hampshire Sheep Association.

Brubaker said, "Hampshires offer the most satisfaction in breeding. We have a program that will work and we sell to people that are happy with satisfied customers."

For more information, contact Clyde Brubaker (215) 589-2137.

Artist Tom Swearingen drew this ancestral tree for the American Hampshire Association Centennial. Two of the 100 limited edition prints will be auctioned in Louisville on November 10. Sealed bids, beginning at $50, will be accepted for the remaining 98 prints.

In preparation for the Hampshire Centennial, Paul and Dorothy Brubaker and grandson Kyle show off their Hampshire ram. Suspenders and polo shirts like the Brubakers and their grandson are wearing will be on sale at the Farm Show booth held at KILE on October 5 through 8 and at the American Hampshire Sheep Association, Louisville, on November 10 through 12.

FARM MANAGEMENT

Landing A Job: Strategies For Farm Wives

BY PATRICIA POWLEY
Extension Home Economist

Because of the instability of the agricultural economy, many rural homemakers are looking for work outside the home for the first time in years -- maybe ever.

This article is the second in a series on the subject of landing a job.

Where to Start

The most obvious place to begin a job search is in the want ads of local newspapers. There are, however, a number of other ways to find out about openings. Government offices, such as local employment or human resources offices, may have a listing of available jobs. Your local Job Service office is another source. If you go to a job service office to inquire about job possibilities in your area, it is important to dress appropriately and be well groomed. Even though you are not applying directly for a job there, you may be overlooked for certain job referrals if you don't look your best.

Post offices, libraries, and personnel offices in business and government buildings also list job vacancies. Bulletin boards at local schools, vocational training centers, and area community colleges may list other interesting jobs. This information is for the public so feel free to make notes.

More important than using want ads, Job Service, or bulletin boards is making personal contacts. Let friends and neighbors, as well as any former employers, know that you are looking for a job. You might get leads on job openings in your area that you wouldn't know about otherwise. Personal contact often works in getting jobs because most employers prefer to hire people who have been referred to them. It is an assurance of a job applicant's character and suitability as a potential employee. In addition to personal friends, think back to people you have been with on volunteer committees or projects. The more people you let know about your interest in locating a job, the more leads you will get.

become discouraged quickly when they begin to list the places for employment. Small towns do not offer the wide range of employment opportunities that a city has. Many books and pamphlets on career planning and job searches seem to ignore the fact that some people live in small communities where job opportunities are extremely limited. However, there may be some jobs available locally or in a larger town within commuting distance that you may not have thought of. Following is a list of a few jobs that are probably available near you.

1. Waitress or cook at a local cafe or restaurant.
2. Teacher's aide, cook, or janitor at a public or private school.
3. Post office employee.
4. Secretary
5. Bookkeeper
6. Receptionist-- doctor, dentist, or social service agency
7. Clerk/cashier in store
8. Accountant or teller at a bank

Of course there are other job possibilities if you have training in a specific field. It may be that you can update or acquire new skills by taking some short courses at an area community college or adult night classes at a public school. Particularly useful in the business world today is experience using computers. Anyone who can type can learn to use a word processor in a few days. Computer programming takes longer, but many community colleges offer such courses.

Money is available for women who decide to return to school to brush up on skills or to train for a job. Your area community college has vocational technical training as well as college courses. Stop in or call the Financial Aid Office or the Career Planning and Placement Center at the college nearest you. They can tell you what funds you are eligible for as well as what courses and training are available at the center. The advisers can help you decide what courses best suit your needs.

It helps to understand some of the financial aid terms. The Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) provides money for workers needing retraining. In addition to these funds, some community colleges have received special grants to provide money for single parents, displaced homemakers, and financially pressed farm wives who want to return to school.

With these resources, there is a good chance that you can get financial help for retraining.

My next article will cover writing a resume.

PFU Milk Producers Oppose Use Of BST

COCHRANTON (Crawford Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farmers Union Milk Producers (FUMPA) has announced that their cooperative is opposed to the use of Bovine Somatotropin (BST) in dairy cows.

Jack Rynd, President of FUMPA stated, "It is our cooperative's policy not to accept any milk that contains BST."

BST, a growth hormone, has come under the scrutiny of farmers, consumers and lawmakers across the state. "Public awareness concerning the use of BST will act as our vehicle to move for more in-depth study," added Rynd.

"BST hormone shots will cause intense stress on the cow, which in turn will shorten her lifespan," said Jim Brown, General Manager of FUMPA. Brown continued, "To change the natural chemistry of any living thing causes side effects that may be detrimental."

FUMPA, headquartered in Western Pennsylvania represents over 200 dairy producers in Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union, a general farm organization, is dedicated to preserving the family farm.

Ag Secretary Has Good News, Bad News For Corn Growers

JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Time could be running out for corn growers who pile on plant nutrients and pesticides, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff told Doebler seed dealers here.

The former Westmoreland County diaryman said Environmental Protection Agency is now doing a study to determine pesticide pollution of ground waters. Also, he added, states in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed have agreed to reduce nutrients going into the bay by 40% in the next 10 years.

Farmers should not apply more fertilizer or manure than a crop can use, and only use chemicals when needed, he suggested.

Wolff announced that Penn State and the state ag department are sharing resoruces to develop new Integrated Pest Management techniques for corn and other crops.

Doebler's Hybrids got a big hand from Wolff. In annual checks of Doebler seed, he reported, the department has never found a problem with germination, dirty seed, weed seed or seed quality.

"I must compliment Doebler's on producing a quality product year after year," he said. "It shows what hard work and family commitment can accomplish."

The ag secretary saw a bright future for new corn products. Corn sweetners, he said, have added 25 sweeteners, cents a bushel to corn prices. Biodegradable plastic bags also look promising. Made with cornstarch, they last only two years in landfills compared to 400 years for standard plastic bags.

A new Doebler single cross, the 82-day 33XP, was introduced to dealers during tour of research plots.

"It practically jumps out of the ground after planting," research director Bill Camerer observed. "Stalks are dark green and sturdy."

Yields of 163 and 162 bushels were recorded in 1988.

Doebler's president Ted Doebler predicted an excellent seed crop.

"Seed quality should be outstanding," he said.

Plushanski Bull Graduates At ABS

A five-year-old Holstein bull, 29 H5201 Plushanski Aussie-ET, bred by Charles Plushanski, of Kutztown, Pennsylvania, has recently graduated into regular service at ABS. Plushanski Aussie-ET entered the ABS Progeny Test Program four years ago, with approximately 200 other young Holstein bulls. After the four year test period, the very best proven sires were chosen on the basis of their genetic merit for production and type traits for regular use in ABS' semen production program. The others, considered unacceptable for ABS' frozen semen business, were sent to slaughter.

Plushanski Ausie-ET's Predicted Transmitting Abilities (PTAs), based on the production of 65 daughters and other relatives are +$101 protein, +$99 fat, +381 pounds of milk, +.19% fat, +50 pounds of fat, +.00% protein and +14 pounds of protein. The Reliability of the PTAs is 79% for milk and fat and 77% for protein. In addition, his PTA for type is +1.68 and his Type-Production Index (TPI) is +720.

Plushanski Aussie-Et is a son of Sterk R A Ijon, from the well-known Valiant daughter, Plushanski Valiant Fran-ET, EX-90.

Sunnybend, Rutter Brothers Take Supreme Champion Dairy Titles

BY PAT PURCELL

YORK (York Co.) — Sunnybend Farms' Peace & Plenty S-W-D Justin-Et captured the supreme dairy champion distinction of the 1989 York Fair by a unanimous decision from show judges Harvey Stoltzfus and John Burket.

This 3-year-old was an easy winner in her breed, according to Holstein judge Stoltzfus and an easy pick for the supreme dairy champion with a definite advantage in udder and full of dairy character with an enviable set of feet and legs.

"This Holstein is tall, dairy, with a super good udder and we believe she wins this award on her total dairyness," said Burkett.

The Supreme Dairy Champion plaque was presented in memory of M. Ebert Rutter by Leo Rutter.

The reserve supreme champion trophy went to an outstanding 5-year-old Guernsey, Rutter Bros. Jubilees Teddibear. Burket admired the strong attachment of foreudder and the high and wide rear udder attachment and the dairy character in this aged cow.

"This Guernsey spells quality with a lot of breed character. She's sharp and extremely well-balanced around the head and neck," said Burket.

This year's award was sponsored by John Ball in memory of his wife, Beattie Mae Ball.

Keith Shaffer of Seven Valleys returned to the show scene. After a 15-year hiatus, he re-entered the show ring with only one animal. That was enough. Ke-Hills Misty Cinnamon-red was named best uddered in the Holstein show on her way to earning the reserve grand champion award.

Coredale Potential Tootie a senior yearling captured the junior title of the show and was followed by the summer yearling Sunnybend Nectarine Starbuck.

JERSEY

Top-O-Hill Jerseys were also top of the show at the York Fair Jersey show. All four champions came from Mildred Seeds breeding program. Admired for their dairy and breed character, very desirable udders, a good set of feet and legs and outstanding bodied animals, they were easy winners in their classes and in the champion selections.

Grand champion was the 4-year-old, Top-O-Hill Milestone Cutie, shown by Mildred Seeds. Reserve grand champion also went to Seeds' senior-2-year ofd, Top-O-Hill Silver B Treasurer.

Junior champion went to Top-O-Hill Admiral MG Valentine an intermediate yearling exhibited by Tonya Kozlowski and M. Gratz. Reserve junior champion went to Top-O-Hill Admiral Peppermint, the summer yearling shown by Peter Evans.

AYRSHIRE

Grand champion M H Albi Lizz took the title for long time Ayrshire exhibitor of the York Fair,Sam Diehl. The aged cow was an easy winner with overall dairyness and style. Reserve grand champion went to Diehl's Cove Creek Libs Goody also exhibited by Sam Diehl. Jeannie Cohick kept the 45-year show veteran from sweeping the titles in the Ayrshire show. Cohick's junior yearling, Maulfair Acres S Star Chrissy was lovely hooks to pins. Reserve junior champion went to Diehls'senior yearling, Cove Creek Flashy Bess.

GUERNSEY

Grand champion of the Guernsey show went to Rutter Bros. Jubilees Teddibear a 5-year-old. Reserve grand champion went to the Rutter Bros. senior 2-year-old, Rutter Bros. Bionics Micki. Junior champion honors went to Rutter Bros. senior calf. Sunnybend King Gretals Girdie took the reserve junior title.

BROWN SWISS

Good Type Puts Big Dollars In This Dairymen's Pocket

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — When the 26th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show opens September 25 for a five-day run at Farm Show Complex, one of its most unabashed boosters will be its president, Obie Snider.

"Breeders are showing the typy kind of cows that will produce heavy year after year," this Bedford County breeder and Master Farmer remarks.

Snider noted in the September issue of Pennsylvania Farmer that he has been studying pedigrees 38 years to produce durable, long producing Holsteins. Breeding for type gives you that, he indicates.

Obie Snider started farming on his own in 1951 with seven Holsteins. Today, over half the 180 registered cows at Singing Brook Farm are classified Excellent or Very Good and have a current DHIR herd average of 21,228 pounds milk, 773 fat and 658 protein. Or 50% more than the state average.

"Supreme Champion at the 1988 PA All-American shows how type, longevity and production mesh," Snider insists. He says the 10-year-old "Della" from Lylehaven Farm, Vermont, classifies a lofty Excellent 97 and is completing a 30,000 pound record.

"We expect her back at the All-American this month," Snider notes.

Matriarch of the Snider herd is the 15½ -year-old, Excellent 91 Singing Brook ML Prissetta who just finished a 20,000 pound record.

"Her daughter is no slouch either," he adds. "An Excellent 90, she has a 147,000 pound lifetime record as an eight-year-old."

Eight is about average for the high classified cows at Singing Brook Farm.

"A lot of cows produce well for a year or two," Snider explains in the current Pennsylvania Farmer. "Then teats get injured. They have calving problems. Don't breed back. Go lame. Breeding for good type helps prevent such problems."

It does at Singing Brook Farm.

"We don't doctor more than one or two cows a month," he says.

Another plus of typy, durable cows are surplus heifers. By keeping cows in the milk string longer, the Sniders are able to sell 20% of the heifer crop each year.

One of the Snider three-year-olds sold at the 1988 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show for $12,100.

Jackbuilt Chairman Mandy in the Singing Brook herd hasn't changed Snider's mind about good type and strong pedigrees. An Excellent 92 with such famous sires as Bootmaker, Ivanhoe and Elevation in her pedigree, she averaged 24,710 pounds milk for three 365-day records, then took time off to produce 60 Embryo Transplant calves. Her sons have been sold to major studs world wide. Most daughters have been held back for the Singing Brook herd. One sells at the All-American this year.

Snider is partners with his son Bruce, and the milk check still pays most of the bills. "And we don't baby the cows," he emphasizes. Herdsman Jim Garman puts 60 cows an hour through a 14-stall carousel. In the seven minute cycle on the carousel, a Singing Brook cow is washed, prepped, stripped, milked and teat dipped.

"Hard milkers and problem cows self destruct in our system," according to Snider. "We cull them."

Disposition and ease of milking get high priority.

"It's one of the first questions I get from bull studs," he says.

"Dairymen just don't have the time or manpower to fuss with cows. Cows have to adapt," he says.

Snider points out that disposition and easy milking are highly transmittable... by the bull as well as the cow.

Are high scoring, durable cows more fun to work with?

"They sure make the trip to the barn a lot shorter," he grins.

Perry Dairy Promotion Committee And 4-H Create Giant Sundae

NEWPORT (Perry Co.) — How much ice cream and chocolate sauce does it take to make a 75-foot-long ice cream sundae? Members of the Perry County 4-H program found out on Friday evening of fair week as they assisted the Perry County Dairy Promotion Committee construct the colossal sundae. The sundae, made in celebration of Cooperative Extension's 75th anniversary, took about 20 minutes to prepare with over a dozen people scooping ice cream, others distributing the peanuts, whipped cream and chocolate sauce, while still dozens more stood by with raised spoons ready to dig into the delicious dairy treat.

Becky Kaucher, Perry County 4-H Coordinator, commented that the construction of the sundae and the resulting feast allowed county FFA and 4-H members a chance to relax and enjoy themselves during a busy week of competition in the showring.

While parents and fair visitors watched from the sidelines, 4-H and FFA members prepared the sundae, each foot containing a slightly different mix of ingredients, obviously determined by the preference of the 4-H member or FFA member standing close by.

Dave Swartz, County Agricultural Agent, remarked that the sundae construction was a unique way to remind the county's residents of the 75th anniversary of Cooperative Extension. He went on to thank the Perry County Dairy Promotion Committee for providing the ingredients for the event, and extended thanks to Dairy Promotion Committee members Beth Rice, Blain and Patty McLaughlin, Elliotsburg for their assistance during the event. By the way, how much ice cream does it take to make a 75-foot sundae? Rice and McLaughlin provided the following recipe:

10 gallons ice cream
1 gallon chocolate sauce
1 gallon crushed strawberries
2 lbs crushed peanuts
1 gallon crushed pineapple
6 cans Real® dairy whipped cream

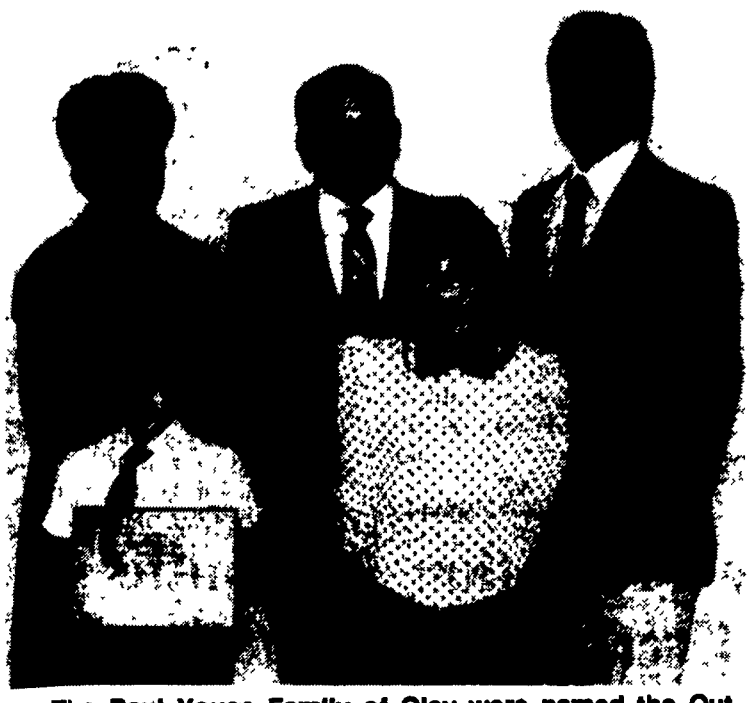
Youse Family Honored



The Paul Youse Family of Oley were named the Outstanding Farm Family at the 34th annual Reading Fair Awards Banquet. Paul, his wife Linda and their children, Scott, Janice and Andrew live on a 220 acre Holstein farm.

gans or rhetoric. We'll beat it by spreading the kind of values exhibited here this evening. We have to teach people how to say no and what to do with their time. You already have the answer to these problems and you hold the keys to success. We will be calling on you," Singel stated.

While Singel was the evening's main speaker it was the announcement of Berks County's 34th Outstanding Farm Family that merited the fanfare. This year's winners were Paul and Linda Youse of Oley R.D. 2. Sharing the honor were their three children, Scott, a senior at Oley Valley High School; Janice, a sixth grader; and Andrew, a third grader in the Oley Elementary School.

Paul and Linda are the third generation on their Oley Valley farm. They took over the operation of the 220 acre farm from Paul's parents, Mary and the late George Youse, 17 years ago. Paul's mother, who still lives on Oley; owns the property.

The Youses raise corn, small grains and hay. They also have approximately 100 head of Holsteins with 50 milking.

Along with their extensive farming operation it was the Youses' many activities that secured the award for them. Paul and Linda belong to the Fleetwood Grange and are leaders in the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club, and members of the Oley Fair. Paul is a member of Agway, and the Berks Co. Dairy Farmers.

Linda is a volunteer at the Oley Elementary School, secretary for the Berks Co. Dairy Council and a member of the Berks Co. Farm Women.

Scott's datebook must be filled to the point of overflowing. President of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club and the Oley Valley FFA is only the start of a long list of activities and responsibilities. Scott is also the Vice President of the Berks Co. FFA, and the Berks Co. Junior Holstein Club. He is no stranger to the show ring where he has won several local grand championships as well as showmanship honors. Scott enjoys farm work and does most of the feeding. His combination of events and farm responsibilities recently earned him a second place FFA Dairy Proficiency Award in the entire Eastern Region of the United States. He is considering attending Delaware Valley College next year.

Janice is also a member of the 4-H, the Junior Holstein Club and the Junior Grange. She enjoys milking.

Andrew belongs to the Jr. Grange. "He's just waiting to turn 8 so he can join the 4-H too," Linda explained. He is also crazy about the farm. "He's learned to drive the tractor and he really likes that. He also is good help in the barn," she added.

Despite their busy schedules, the Youses don't have problems getting their kids to help. "When school's not in session the kids are out in the barn every morning," Linda said. Pa-Lin Farm is a family operation in every sense of the word and the Youses don't have any hired help.

According to Paul the family didn't expect to be selected and he stated his goals for the future succiently, "keep on dairy farming." While it's a little early to say for sure, there is lots of interest among the younger family members to continue the operation into the 4th generation. For now the Youses have to decide how to spend the $600 gift certificate awarded to them by Albert Boscov of the Boscov's Department Store chain. If Janice and Andrew have their way there will be a VCR at the Youse household in the near future.

Four young people were also honored for their outstanding achievements during the banquet. Karen Fessler and Kirk Sattazahn, members of the Conrad Weiser FFA, were named as the top FFA girl and boy. According to their advisor, Donald McNutt, who presented the awards, Fessler had an outstanding FFA record. One of three valedictorians at Conrad Weiser this spring, Fessler served as President, Treasurer and Reporter for the local chapter. She was the youngest member to ever

New Exhibitors Sign-up For All—American Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Five new commercial exhibitors will offer visitors everything from milk premiums to production aids at the 1989 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show here September 25-29, it is announced by show manager Charles Itle.

According to Itle, newcomers include Monsanto Agricultural company, Regional Milk Marketing Agency, Endless Mountain Equipment, Renaissance Nutrition and Conestoga Building Supplies.

The five join 24 other commercial and educational exhibitors for the All-American's five-day run at the Farm Show Complex.

"We could not maintain our status as a nationally recognized show without the support of these exhibitors," the show manager commented.

The giant show will host breeders from 30 states and Canadian provinces, he said, with 2500 cattle competing in six breed shows for $87,000 in premiums. Four sales also will be held along with four youth events.

Here's what new exhibitors plan:

Monsanto, Severna Park, MD-- Use of Bovine Somatotropin hormone to boost production will be discussed at the Monsanto exhibit but it will be strictly "educational", says regional manager Wayne Edwards. Food and Drug Administration is not expected to rule on BST's use until late next year.

RCMA, Batavia, NY-- Membership coordinator Dave Eyster will update visitors on the 22,000-member marketing agency and how over order premiums have put an extra $60,000,000 in Northeast Milk checks.

Endless Mountain Equipment, Troy, PA-- These equipment specialists will be talking barn automation and liquid manure handling and storage. "We're distributors for Wic, Inc. and Bodoc, Inc.," Wilbur Cronk reveals.

Renaissance Nutrition, Roaring Springs, PA-- "See us for vitamin and mineral premixes," suggests Craig Brown.

Conestoga Building Supplies, New Holland, PA--Pole barns are the big news here. "We have full drafting and engineering departments," Brian Shopf adds.

Itle notes that dairymen also will have a chance to shop and compare sires among seven artificial breeding services, browse at two ag college exhibits and talk dairy beef and veal promotions with Pennsylvania Beef Council.

"And that's just for starters," he said.

The Pennsylvania All-American is co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission.

4-H And FFA Judging Forum

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Competition should continue tough in the Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Forum September 26 at the Farm Show Complex.

The popular judging contest will be held in conjunction with the 1989 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show September 25-29 and should at least match the 343 contestants in 1988, officials believe.

"We also can expect both 1988 champs back," reports Forum chairman Duane Duncan, Carlisle.

The 4-H individual winner in 1988 was Kristen Metzker, Martinsburg. Tim Lehman, Cumberland Valley FFA, won the Future Farmer top prize. Both are high school juniors.

Contestants will judge five cow classes and two heifer classes selected from among the Ayrshires, Guernseys, Holsteins and Jerseys entered in the All-American.

"The breeders have been most cooperative," Duncan notes. "And it gives the youngsters an opportunity to judge some of the top dairy animals in the country."

But having a good eye for cattle is only half the battle. Future Farmers and 4-H also are quizzed on dairy herd management.

Metzker and Lehman, the reigning 4-H and FFA champs, won't find the contest any easier, Forum records indicate. Only Michelle Comman, Cumberland County, has won more than one individual 4-H title in the 14-year history of the Forum. She had back to back wins in 1985 and 1986. Kevin Smoker, Lancaster County, did one better in the FFA division, winning titles in 1977, 1978 amd 1979.

Warren County 4-H and Northern Bedford FFA have won the most team titles with three apiece.

Lead-off event for farm youth at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will be the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant Saturday evening, September 23 at the Marriott Inn, Harrisburg.

Both the Invitational Youth Dairy Judging Contest and the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show are scheduled for 8:00 a.m., Monday, in the Farm Show Complex. The Invitational holds forth in the Small Arena, and the Junior Show in the Large Arena.

On Tuesday, September 26, the Junior Dairyman Contest is set for the Main Farm Show Building at 10:00 a.m. and the Forum in the Small Arena, also at 10:00 a.m.

PFU Calls On State Legislature To Act On BST

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— The Pennsylvania Farmers Union opposed to the use of Bovine Growth Hormones (BGH) in the production of dairy products called on the state legislature to ban the use of Bovine Somatotropin (BST) in dairy cows.

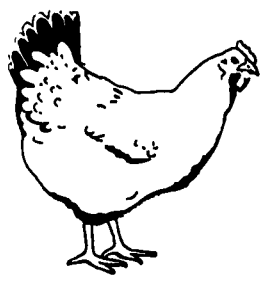
William Sturges, Executive Director of the PFU stated, "Many questions concerning the use of BST and its relationship to the economic impact it will have on our dairy industry, consumers demand for a pure food source, and the long-term effects of chemical imbalances due to hormonal increases still are unanswered. More studies need to be done before the use of growth hormones is accepted."

"It is important that both the farmer and the consumer have trust in the product before them," said Allen Deiter, PFU President. "Now is not the time to tamper with the use of substances that have not been studied in-depth," continued Deiter.

"The use of BST would destroy consumer confidence in an industry that labels their products as pure and wholesome," added Sturges.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union has proposed to the Legislature that Public Hearings be held as a tool to be used in gathering public opinion and more facts concerning the use of this hormone in dairy cows.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union, a general farm organization, is dedicated to preserving the family farm.



Thanks and Congratulations

PAFC Annual Meeting Set Sept. 25-26

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "Issues for the 90's: Rural Development, Food Safety and the Environment" is the theme for the 1989 annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC), according to organization Executive Director Carol Buckhout.

Slated at the Harrisburg Sheraton-West September 25-26, the meeting begins at noon on the 25th with the opening luncheon, followed by the afternoon issues forum. This annual meeting marks the 56th birthday of the organization, which was established in 1933 to facilitate understanding of the cooperative form of business. That remains PAFC's primary mission; one major educational event is this issues forum.

The opening speaker for the forum is Mr. Verone Gibb, Executive Vice President for CoBank, the National Bank for Cooperatives, Denver, Colorado. Mr. Gibb will address the subject of rural development in his remarks.

The second part of the afternoon program will include a panel of experts to address the topic of "Consumer perceptions of Food Safety." Mr. Steve Kerr, Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives, will be the panel moderator.

The evening of the 25th is highlighted by the annual awards banquet, which recognizes an outstanding cooperative educator and a person who has made significant contributions to cooperatives in Pennsylvania. Dr. Lamartine Hood, Dean of the College of Agriculture at The Pennsylvania State University, will be the banquet speaker.

The business session, set for Wednesday morning, follows the October Cooperative Month kickoff breakfast and features presentations by PAFC leadership, including PAFC President Robert M. Dever, assistant general manager of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

For registration information, contact PAFC at 814-231-3010. Special rates are available for educators, extension agents and government representatives.

PAFC is an educational organization representing about 35 rural and agricultural cooperatives with member-owners and operating territory that includes Pennsylvania.

Doebler's New 33XP

ONE IN A THOUSAND

by Bill Camerer

"I'm Bill Camerer, Doebler research director, collecting pollen for an experimental hybrid.

Selecting hybrids for release this fall was no cakewalk. Last year's drought blurred trial results on some. Others just didn't measure up.

But one new Extra Performance single cross stood out in the crowd. Doebler 33XP, an 82-day single cross that puts us bushels ahead of the competition.

My uncle Ted Doebler doesn't make my job any easier. For these Extra Performance single crosses, he demands an extra nine to eleven bushels. 33XP did even better.

Ted also wants other extras. Like extra blight resistance. Extra drought tolerance. Higher shelling percentage. Tougher stalks. Less root lodging. All in one XP. 33XP topped the charts.

This is slow work. I start with at least 1,000 new hybrids each year. Then over four or five years I run the top picks through 24 replicated research plots in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware and Maryland, and 180 strip tests in our eight states.

If we're lucky, two or three of the original 1,000 make it. Big producers. Sturdy. Healthy. Consistent. Not this year. Only 33XP put it all together.

Why we're high on Doebler 33XP

Plant 33XP and stand back quick. Seedlings practically jump out of the ground. Stalks are dark and sturdy.

And look at the yields. A solid 135.67 bushels in 1987-88 Eastern trials . . . . despite weather havoc. Just how good? Doebler 33XP popped 163 bushels in Northern PA and 162 bushels in New York.

If you plant the longer season 48XE, try a bushel of this one. Doebler 33XP has same yield potential but half the down corn. Stalks are taller and ranker than 48XE. And you get faster drydown. Sorry. Seed supply is limited.

Experimentals looking great

Last year's drought forced another year of testing on five exciting hybrids. Like the experimental three-way that outshelled a top rated commercial hybrid by 23 bushels. And how about this new single cross. It beat all hybrids at six locations by 17.6 bushels.

What a spring! What a crop!

Can you believe that spring weather? We started planting corn April 24, our earliest ever. We finished planting June 8, our latest ever.

Just how wet was it? I prepared 180 strip tests this year. Heavy rains reduced plantings to 101. A 44% washout.

And a mini drought yet. Despite 16.45 inches of rain in the May-July period, the Doebler family had to crank up irrigation units in August.

But the good news. We have an excellent crop coming on. Seed quality looks outstanding.

said that the environmental movement in this country has come about because of changing values. This change came after World War II in what Hays called the post-industrial society, where people have discretionary income and want to make a better life for themselves.

Hays said the history of consumption shows that consumer preferences are related to human necessities before World War I. But now we have time and money to enrich our lives.

One of the modern values Hays says consumers want is space. And we want wellness. "We don't have the former childhood diseases to worry about so now we worry about chemicals and other environmental problems, Hays said.

Many of these value can be and are being supplied in private markets. Many businesses are geared to provide the amenities of this desire for a favorable environment. "I see the environmental movement as the major force in modern society for expanding scientific imput and market development," Hays said. "While old jobs disappear, new jobs are developed in this environmental economy."

Joseph Calhoun, meteorologist, WGAL TV, said general forecasts of the weather are no longer good enough. People want specific forecasts for their area. He believes that in the future we will see technical capabilities to pinpoint weather forecastes to specific small areas of the reporting area. Calhoun said even now the equipment with computers allowed him to make a much better forecast than when he started 10 years ago.

Patrick Boova, vice president, commodities, Shearson-Lehman Brothers, said the 1990 farm bill will be the first one to be put into effect with the Graham-Rudman restraints in place. "In 1985 we didn't have specific numbers, but next year, ag programs will need to be cut," Boova said.

Boova said that last year pork supplies were very high and in the fall of 1988 we had the widest ratio of retail to farm prices in the history of the market. At the same time beef ratios were the smallest in history. This year, pork prices are very narrow and beef price ratios are very wide.

In corn, Boova said the bottom of the market may have been established. He said that even though we will produce more corn this year, the carry-over will be less than after the drought last year. "It's not a supply problem but a demand market this year," Boova said.

In wheat, Boova said the market was in a tight supply and demand situation and for soybeans, he sees a more than ample supply.

During the convention, the 1990 officers and new directors were named as follows: President, John W. Sutton, Lovatt & Co., Inc., Ambler; 1st Vice President, Janet Hines, Hines Feed Store, Hollidaysburg; 2nd Vice President, Edwin Rhoads, Rhoads Mills, Selingsgrove; 3rd Vice President, Mike Horn, Pennfield Corp.,Pennfield Corp., Lancaster; and Treasurer, John J. Hess, II, Hess Mills, Paradise.

Newly elected directors are: Cameron D. Wright, Conneautville Farmers Exchange, Conneautville; Jack Conrad, Eastern Mobile Mills, Lititz and Arlene H. Good, Stevens Feed Mill, Inc., Stevens. H. Glenn Esbenshade, Esbenshade Mills, Mt. Joy was re-elected for another term.

At the final banquet, several awards were given. Jack Hess, Hess Mills, Paradise, and treasurer of PennAg, was honored for his long term service to the organization. Hess has served as an officer or director begining in 1963. He was president in 1972 and has been treasurer since 1977.

Hal Price, an executive with Texasgulf, Inc. was honored for significant contributions to the convention over the years. Texasgulf has been a major contributor to the annual speakers fund that has attracted world-famuos persons to speak at the convention.

And this editor was named PennAg's "Ag Journalist of the Year." Thanks!

Bowie Kuhn, former baseball commissioner, at PennAg banquet.

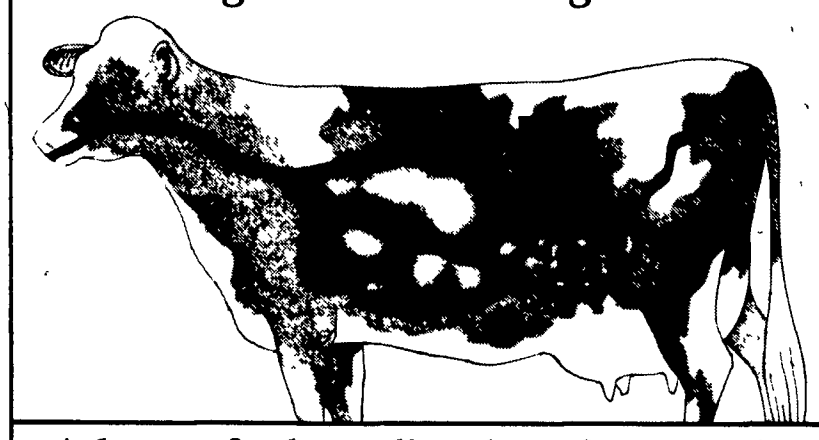
Is too much of your dairy protein breaking down before it gets here?



Ask your feed supplier about SoyPLUS®.

SoyPLUS can boost income over feed costs by delivering more undegradable protein to the small intestine, where nutrient absorption really takes place.

SoyPLUS is a richly aromatic, high-energy soybean meal that has been processed in a unique way to increase its level of undegradable (bypass) protein. University research and many 20,000-pound herds are proving that SoyPLUS can significantly increase your return over feed costs.

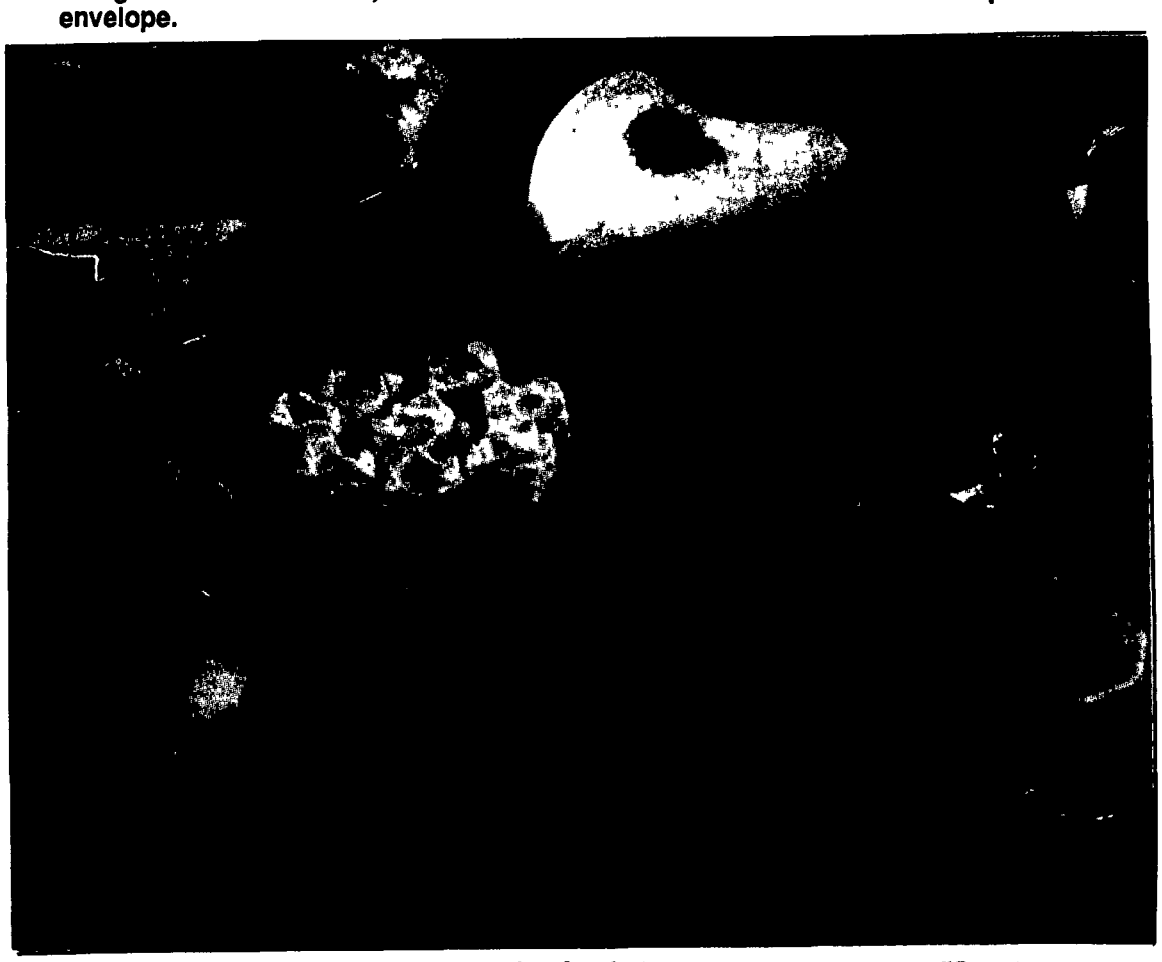
Eye-Appealing Recipes Create An Elegant Buffet

Whether you're entertaining with a black-tie reception or an impromptu bash, tempting foods for nibbling can make for a truly memorable occasion. Mix and match for the appetizers—from sweet to savory, hot to cold, classy to casual—for winning combinations.

Before you start cooking, take a few minutes to scrutinize your menu. Have you balanced rich and highly seasoned foods with simple, fresh items? Are you able to keep hot foods hot, cold foods cold? Have you included some room temperature snacks such as crackers, nuts and cheese? Roasts and a large ham are favorites for buffet meats. Serve hot or cold and carve the meat across the grain into thin slices when ready to serve.

For more recipes, send for brochures to the following: American Dairy Association, 6300 N. River Road, Rosemont, IL 60018, and The National Live Stock & Meat Board, 444 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago. IL 60611.

Whatever the occasion or season, plan a party menu that's quick and easy to prepare, appealing to your guests and easy on the waistline. To "meat" your party needs, send for "Light Bites In Minutes" at the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Department LBME, 444 North Michigan Avenue, 18th Floor, Chicago, IL 60611. There is no charge for the brochure, but be sure to include a self-addressed stamped #10 envelope.



If you'd like to serve these attractive foods to your guests, request "Specials for Spring" by writing to the American Dairy Association, P.O. Box 760, Rosemont, IL 60018-4289. Be sure to include a self-address stamped business envelope and 25 cents for each brochure requested.

4 large chicken breasts, split and boned

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Cream butter; combine with parsley, garlic, tarragon, salt and pepper. (Or place all these ingredients in food processor with steel knife and process a few seconds until blended). 2 cloves garlic, minced

¾ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon ground red pepper

1 small onion, finely chopped

2 cloves garlic, minced

1 tablespoon olive oil

1 teaspoon cornstarch

½ cup beef broth

½ cup dry white wine

1 tablespoon tomato paste

Shape meat mixture into 35 meatballs (about 1 teaspoon meat mixture for each) and place on roasting pan or jelly roll pan; reserve. Remove loosened skin and seeds from pepper; cut into ¼ -inch pieces; reserve. Cook and stir onion and garlic in oil in large frying pan 2 to 3 minutes. Combine cornstarch and beef broth. MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

September is National Cholesterol Education Month. To celebrate, why not try a diet change? It doesn't have to be drastic — just a gradual change in how you cook and eat.

Try microwaving instead of frying lean meats or skinned chicken. No extra fat is needed to prevent sticking. Cut serving sizes to 3 ounces (4 ounces when uncooked) per person. Smaller portions are not only better for you, they also microwave quicker.

Try cooking with more herbs. Microwaving vegetables with fresh or dried herbs produce such wonderful flavors, you won't be tempted to add any high-fat toppings. Sprinkle meats with herbs for flavor and paprika for a pleasing color before you microwave them.

Ground turkey is low in fat and cholesterol. Try it for half the ground beef called for in a recipe. Or grind your own trimmed beef round steak. Use your food processor fitted with the steel knife. Cut beef in one-inch chunks and process with on-off pulses until of a coarse-ground texture. Do not overprocess or beef will be very dry and tough after cooking.

Turkey Pockets Al Greco (below) is a tasty recipe calling for ground turkey. The turkey filling can be made ahead and refrigerated or frozen in single portions for a quick sandwich. Or, it can be used to start other one-dish meals, like sloppy joes, chili, chow mein, quick stew, soup, and micro-stir-fry with vegetables.

Microwaved ground turkey can get a "boiled" taste, yet a dried-out texture. To prevent this, add seasonings before cooking and cook uncovered. Microwave until turkey is no longer pink: Avoid overcooking, but cook to well-done. Ground turkey can toughen and form a firm, dry lump during cooking. To prevent this, crumble it into cooking dish and stir with a fork several times during cooking to break up pieces.

Yes, you still can have desserts on a modified cholesterol diet. Try more microwave fruit desserts (instead of high-fat cakes, cookies and pastries. A simple micro-baked apple, spicy micro-poached pear slices, or peach honey pudding are sweet-tooth pleasers. Or, try a modified apple crisp. Choose naturally sweet apples and add about half the sugar. Use half a recipe of the crunch part with half the margarine called for, and plenty of cinnamon (to add color and tease your taste buds into thinking there's more sugar than there really is). Microwave 8 to 10 minutes on High or until apples are tender.

Apple Bread Pudding (below) is another good example where the fat, cholesterol and sodium levels are very low. It's a heart-healthy, filling dessert for autumn. Serve it cold or warm with a sprinkle of cinnamon, or top it with a low-calorie, no-fat, nutmeg dessert sauce.

Quick Turkey Pockets Al Greco

1 pound ground turkey
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, chopped, or ½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon dried Italian herbs
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 mini pitas (3-inch pocket bread)
1 cup chopped tomato
1 cup peeled and thinly sliced cucumber
2 ounces feta cheese, crumbled

Thaw turkey, if necessary. Crumble turkey into a microwave-safe 2-quart casserole. With a fork, stir in onion, garlic, herbs and pepper. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes, stirring with a fork twice during cooking to break up turkey. Cook just until turkey is no longer pink. Let stand while warming pitas. Trim off about ½ inch of top of each pita. Layer pitas between paper towels. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) for 1 to 2 minutes or until barely warm to the touch. Spoon turkey mixture into each pita. Top with tomato, cucumber and feta cheese. Makes 8 small sandwiches.

To double recipe: Double ingredients and microwaving time. Stir every 3 minutes to break up turkey. If desired, cool; then freeze in one-serving-size or meal-size portions.

To thaw one serving: Place in microwave-safe dish. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) for 45 to 90 seconds, breaking apart with fork halfway through heating. To warm thawed turkey mixture, place it in a small microwave-safe dish. Microwave (High) 20 to 40 seconds.

Each pita: 140 calories, 29g protein, 4g fat, 35g carbohydrate, 172mg sodium, 42mg cholesterol.

After 925 Ribbons, Former Teacher Hooked On Second Career

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

GREENCASTLE (Franklin Co.) — A jar of peaches entered in the Franklin County Fair in 1970 started Hazel Angle on what could be called her "second career." During her first career — forty years as a teacher — she had occasionally been teased that all a teacher could do was "teach school and boss kids."

A life-long gardener and canner, Hazel decided to take some peaches to the fair to "show I could do something besides teach school. That started it, and it just grew and grew," she explains.

Grow it did, until today Hazel has 881 ribbons earned at the Franklin County Fair for her baked goods, canned goods, needlework, flower arrangements, and rugs.

That first jar of peaches received a third place ribbon. She entered more items next year, and the ribbons started piling up. When the staff of the Extension Office saw how many blue ribbons Hazel had won, they encouraged her to compete at the Farm Show. She entered there for the first time in 1978, and now has 44 Farm Show ribbons, for a total collection of 925 ribbons.

Of the 72 ribbons Hazel earned at the recent Franklin County Fair, 25 are blue and 26 are red. Her entries in the 1989 Farm Show brought her five ribbons.

Hazel, 79, who also enters fresh vegetables in the fair, does all her own gardening except for the plowing. She lives in a house built by her father in the 1950's, just a mile from the farm where she was raised.

Throughout her teaching career Hazel, who never married, cared for her parents, raised a garden and canned produce. "You can take the girl from the farm, but you can't take the farm from the girl," she noted.

Her first school was a public one-room school in Antrim Township, where she taught all eight grades. Hazel is of the opinion that a teacher can get a lot accomplished in the old-fashioned classroom. "I'd have one class up front, reciting, but the others would be listening," she remembers.

After eight years there, she taught senior high school math in the Tussey Mountain area of Huntingdon County. She said that she enjoyed teaching high school, but added that it was "more hectic" than the one-room school.

Hazel had received her teacher's training at what was then Shippensburg State Teacher's College. As she saw some of her own students go on to college and get advanced degrees, she thought, "if they can do it, I can, too." Although she admits that she was "a little old when I tried it," she embarked upon further study, and was awarded her master's equivalent in the 1960's.

Retired from teaching since 1974, Hazel spends much of her time preparing fair and Farm Show entries and crocheting plastic rugs on order for customers. The rugs do not appear to be made out of bread bags, department store bags and, in one case, a plastic tablecloth. Their designs are artistically executed, the crocheting firm and uniform, and the overall effect one of quality and fine workmanship. (It's no wonder they look so nice; anyone who has made 400 of them should know all the tricks to their construction.) Each rug takes her about a week to make, although this time of year finds her busy with gardening and canning much of the time. "Winter days and hot afternoons are the good days" for crocheting the rugs, she said.

She finds it difficult to get caught up with her orders — she makes a few extra rugs with each order so the customer will have a choice of color and design, but often the customer ends up buying the ordered rugs and all the extras.

Hazel also makes hooked rugs, but not in the same quantity as she makes the plastic ones. Her grandmother had been a skilled rug maker, and when she got too old to rug anymore, Hazel thought, "It would be terrible to let that art go by." So, Hazel taught herself to do it, and the results are excellent. She cuts out most of her rug designs with scissors and newspaper — without even drawing the design on the newspaper first. In one instance, she copied a design of her grandmother's from a 100-year old rug.

Hazel Angle won 72 ribbons at the Franklin County Fair in late August. Pictured are some of the fruits, vegetables, cookies and flower arrangements that earned ribbons; she also won with needlework and rugs.

The hooked rugs take much longer to design and make than the crocheted plastic ones. "One hooked rug a year is enough to figure out and make," according to Hazel, who also admits that she is already "planning the rug I'm going to hook this winter."

Hazel's cookies have been strong winners also. Last year, she collected six blue ribbons for them, and this year all but one variety earned a ribbon. She uses a standard sand tart recipe to make her fruit and chocolate chip cookies, but uses less flour than the recipe — which is meant for roll-and-cut cookies — calls for. While she does measure some ingredients, she can't pin down the exact amount of flour, but simply stops adding flour "when it gets the right consistency for drop cookies." Her oatmeal cookies are made from the recipe on the oatmeal box. All her cookies contain butter rather than white shortening.

While Hazel denies having a favorite fair or Farm Show entry, she says that if she could enter only one item, it would be a hooked rug. The part of entering exhibitions that Hazel finds the most fun is visiting the event the evening after her items are judged and checking to see what won a ribbon.

Hazel's tips to people who are considering entering items in a fair are to "like what you're doing, and show it by putting it in the fair." Her second rule is to always select the best item you have. "Don't just make one of something; make several," she advises, "and select the best one." To young people entering items, she says, "Don't give up. If you get one ribbon, you'll be surprised how happy you'll be."

Hazel makes "end of the garden" vegetable soup each summer in her large, pleasant kitchen. She cans over 100 quarts of fruits and vegetables each year.

If one ribbon bring a happy feeling, Hazel Angle has 925 reasons to be happy. She readily admits that she is hooked on entering the fair and winning ribbons, and hastily adds, "It's nice to get hooked on something good."

Does Hazel plan on retiring from her "second career" any time soon? "I've already started getting things ready for Farm Show," she says. Canned apples and tomato juice will be among the items she enters, "if they get nice."

Hazel shared the basic recipe she uses for her prize-winning cookies. The amount of flour is approximate; Hazel adds flour until the dough is "the right consistency for drop cookies."

Sand Tarts or Saint Hearts

1 cup butter
2 cups granulated sugar
3 eggs
3½ -4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla or lemon extract.

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs and flavoring and beat until fluffy. Sift flour. Measure and add salt and baking powder. Sift again. Add sifted dry ingredients to butter mixture. Stir until a medium-soft dough is formed and add whatever extras, such as fruit or chocolate chips, are desired. Drop on greased cookie sheet and bake at 350° for 8-10 minutes.

A sampling of the many, many rugs Hazel has made. The pattern of the one in the center was copied from a 100-year-old rug made by Hazel's grandmother.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

At first glance, they surely wouldn't appear to be anything special.

Just glass jars, filled with tomato sauce. At supermarket value, they're worth, oh, maybe ten or twelve bucks for generic, twenty if compared to the really top name brands.

But, to me, they're not just plain, old, ordinary jars of home canned goods. These canning jars are filled with more than food. Captured inside these dozen shiny, clear glass jars is the taste and smell and warmth of dwindling summertime.

Even the color of the contents, a husky, vibrant red tinged with orange, hints of the shades of September.

They're the hue of flaming sumac, which brighten the edges of dusty rural roads. They're the tint of fall sunsets, poking fingers of brilliant colored light over browning corn fields and yellowing soybeans. They're the shade of the cosmos and coxcomb blooms, spilling fiery hues over the edges of a clear glass vase on the window behind the sink.

Even while still untouchably hot from the canning processing, these dozen jars of tomato sauce have already stirred a sense of accomplishment. Each tiny "ping," signalling a seal of the shiny lid to the jar's glass rim, is a sort of pat on the back for a job completed.

In my own little personal quirk, I dig out from a drawer of tea towels one checked in a blue and white gingham pattern, on which to set the jars to cool. Something about the aesthetics of brightly-colored home canned produce, displayed on a blue and white gingham towel, has always brought me immense satisfaction.

Other jars of "preserves" have cooled here on the checked gingham over the past several weeks. Pints of crisp, green chunks of pickles attest to the overwhelming yield put out by a mere four hills of cucumbers. Like one of those cosmetic "make-overs," the ministrations of Grandma's famed seven-day sweet pickles transforms them from ho-hum, boring cukes to the perfect accompaniment to a grilled cheese sandwich.

And, in response to the endless demands for the standard sidekick of a family pantry staple snack - peanut butter - are jars of sweet, sticky strawberry, peach, blackberry, and grape jams and jellies.

After a day of cooling, these jars of tomato sauce will be stored with those others already tucked away on the jar shelves. Set in the coolest corner of the basement, against the stone foundation of the house, they wait in readiness for future use.

With the use of each jar's contents over the next many months comes a continuing sense of satisfaction and gratitude. For, with the opening of each carefully preserved jar - of tomatoes, or pickles, or jelly - the memories will come pouring out.

Memories of the half-dozen kittens on one side, and faithful old Fritz on the other, trotting along — side on my daily gathering trips to the garden. Typical kittens they are, playing hide-n-seek through the tangle of pumpkin vines, scaling the electric pole, rubbing against my ankles as I kneel, picking beans. Less eager in his advancing age, Fritz stretches in the shade of the willow tree, to patiently, quietly wait.

Memories of the hum of the equipment mowing and baling hay, preserving winter stores for the dairy herd that they too might be fed during the upcoming winter. Memories of the sound of doves winging overhead from the power lines and the family of martins calling as they dive and swoop after mosquitos.

Memories of the distinctive scent of pollinating corn on a sultry evening and of the mouth-watering aroma of apples cooking for sauce.

Memories - of my mother picking from her garden, and preserving, and "putting up" many of these same favorites. And, of her mother before that, and surely generations of our other mothers before that.

These are not just jars of tomato sauce. These are jars of roots.... of heritage.... of tradition.

Worth little, perhaps, in the eyes of many. But, priceless to me.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

1 quart carrots, cut up
1 quart celery, chopped
1 pint onions
1 medium pepper
¼ cup canning salt
3 cups sugar
8 quart peeled tomatoes

Cook tomatoes until soft. In second pan cook other vegetables until well done. Put all cooked vegetables through a food mill. Add salt and sugar. Bring to a boil. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

2 pecks red ripe tomatoes
1 bunch celery with leaves
4 to 5 onions
3 to 4 peppers

Wash and trim any spots from tomatoes. Trim off stems, do not peel, quarter tomatoes. Put in large kettle. Mash with hands to force pieces apart and make some juice for cooking. Wash celery and cut into smaller pieces. Chop onions and peppers in smaller pieces. Mix together. Cook until skin rolls from meat of tomato and other vegetables are soft. Put through a food mill. Reserve juice in separate containers. Flavor with salt and sugar to taste. Put in a quart or pint jars. Place in hot water bath for 30 minutes. Yields approximately 10 quarts for 2 pecks.

Top-Notch Return From Meat Promotion Dollars

CHICAGO — For every $1 invested, 508 consumers were reached through media public relations programs conducted from June 1988 through June 1989 by the Processed Meats Committee of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Delivered through the consumer media, these messages give consumers strong reasons to purchase processed pork, beef, lamb and veal products. If this media space or time had to be purchased, the cost would have been $1.46 million, equating to a return of $4.64 from each $1 invested.

Pork, beef, lamb and veal producers, as well as packers and processors, invest dollars in the Processed Meats Committee programs through a checkoff system to promote the products.

These programs include an ongoing editorial service to food editors that tallied almost 61 million impressions during the 12-month time period. Special media campaigns contribute to the program, such as the current "All-American Deli of the Year" program, which has already chalked up 21.7 million impressions since its release this spring.

Founded in 1983, the Processed Meats Committee is charged with creating a more favorable marketing environment for the benefit of livestock producers, packers and processors.

Kid-Size Oranges Ready For Back-to-School Crowd

Millions of parents throughout the country are gearing up for busy fall schedules, as their children head back to school. "What to eat" is one of the important parts of this fall ritual, especially when students begin their day with breakfast or arrive home from school tired and hungry.

When planning meals and snacks you will be glad to know that excellent supplies of nutritious Valencia oranges will be coming from California and Arizona. Small sizes will dominate the crop - the perfect kid-size fruit. Watch the grocery ads and visit the produce section of your favorite market to take advantage of special sales. This year the fruit did not grow as large as usual, but the smaller-sized oranges are very sweet and juicy. Just right for children to enjoy in their lunch boxes and for after school snacks.

Don't pass up any green tinged Valencias. They are the ripest, juiciest, sweetest of the season. An interesting phenomenon called "regreening" occurs with Valencia oranges as the summer progresses and the weather warms. The oranges begin to turn green again at the stem end. The warm weather causes the skin to absorb chlorophyll and turn green again when the fruit is fully ripe and remains on the tree. Regreened oranges are really the "pick of the season."

What's Next In Microwave Ovens

With over 80% of all homes already owning at least one microwave oven, industry experts predict that, logically, sales would begin leveling off. Much to their surprise, shipments of microwave ovens exceeded expectations throughout the first half of this year.

One reasonable explanation is that many consumers are buying second and third units to be used in the home, office, vacation home or the dorm room. At the same time, there is a whole generation os "aging" microwave ovens in American kitchens.

Today's microwave oven shoppers know what they want in oven features. They are asking for on-touch cooking, auto-reheat and auto-defrost. In response, manufacturers are offering special convenience features, such as weight defrost and programmable recipes.

But it's more than a matter of just improving current features. Manufacturers are also adding options, such as broiling, toasting and convection capabilities.

Not to be overlooked is the fashion issue. Variety in colors and sizes allows consumers to select microwave ovens that complement the home decor. Current color preferences include black, white and wood grain.

As we enter the 1990's, the microwave oven will become a "given" in the kitchen and in other strategic locations throughout the consumer's home and work environment. Some trend forecasters predict that consumers will move to microwave oven built-ins -- two or three of them so that there is no waiting in line to heat breakfast and dinner.

Other trend watchers foresee a combination microwave-freezer unit. Food will be defrosted and cooked by a pre-set program before the cook comes home from work.

Still others suggest that the microwave oven will cook food automatically according to directions on a bar code on the food package.

And for the ultimate eat-and-run experience, microwave ovens will be built into automobiles. At lunchtime, the driver can just pull a package of shelf-stable food from the glove compartment and pop it into the microwave oven.

Within the past five years of increasing microwave influence, remarkable changes have taken place in the way we eat. It is generally believed that microwave heating and cooking will continue to make inroads in most American kitchens. As one industry expert has noted, "We are about as far along now in the microwave business as the victrola is in the sound business."

Quality parenting. It's a concept we hear a lot about these days. But as one mother declared, "As soon as my last child is grown and off to college, we're going to have some time for us!"

Most of us are not efficiency experts, and although we may lead a very organized office life, sometimes we fail to translate those skills to home. There are 1,440 minutes in every day. How we structure our activities within those sixty-second periods will help determine whether we live in a state of bedlam or comfort.

With a little adjustment some of the organizational and time management principles can lend themselves well to creating time for quality parenting. Here are some basic principles for you to explore as they are suggested by the authors Popkin and Albert in "Quality Parenting."

* Make and use 'to do' lists. I have found that just writing things down gives me peace of mind. You may want to make a daily list, or a weekly or monthly list. If you already make these lists, consider prioritizing your list and starting each day off with the most difficult thing and getting it behind you. Take this column for example. If I write it first thing in the morning, it is much easier than when I put it off all day and have a deadline stifling any creativity.

* Alter the frequency of performing routine tasks. In work situations, we manage our time by seeking what tasks can be eliminated. In families, there are seldom any tasks that can be eliminated. However, examine how frequently you do certain chores. Could you wash the kitchen floor or tub less frequently and still survive? You might have to try different frequencies until you discover what seems right for you and your family.

* Beware of diminishing returns. This is based on the 80/20 principle. Simply stated, it means that 80 percent of the results in most jobs are accomplished with the first 20 percent of the effort. Is the additional hour you put into washing the car, removing all specks of tar really that important, when you could have been playing baseball with your son instead?

* Be willing to timeshift. This means doing jobs when we are feeling energized and in a good mood. For example, I'm a morning person and accomplish much more in an hour before everyone gets up than in an entire evening after work.

* K.I.S.S. Keep it short and simple, from entertaining to bill paying. Take some time to organize tools or equipment needed for routine jobs that will make it go more quickly next time.

* Use chunks of time. Rather than grocery shopping each week, do it two weeks at a time. Or prepare two casseroles and freeze one.

Reading and applying these techniques are two different things. Why not pick out one of them to try with your family as you get back into the fall routine, and see if you find more time to spend together!

September Is Honey Month

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — September is honey month. Honey, one of the sweetest gifts from the busy honeybee, is growing in popularity. Perhaps, you use it in place of sugar.

If you do, you realize, honey is sweeter than sugar. In fact, studies show it is 33 percent sweeter and containes fewer calories than sugar.

Honey is good for you. It contains trace amounts of vitamins, minerals and acids not found in refined sugars.

There are many different kinds of honey. These taste different and smell different. The most popular is clover honey. "Watch your toes, when you go barefoot in the yard. Bees are often busy doing their job and they don't like to be stepped on. Clover honey is a sweet tasting, light to golden honey with an aroma of clover blossoms. Another kind is tulip poplar, a dark, reddish honey with mild sweetness that tastes like molasses.

The honey bee helps the farmer. Many farmers pay beekeepers to rent their bees because they pollinate fruits and vegetables such as watermelons, pumpkins and cucumbers.

Bees also pollinate flower gardens and make flowers beautiful.

In order to produce one pound of honey, honeybees must tap the nectar of two million flowers and fly more than 55,000 miles. No doubt the bee's hard work inspired the saying, "Busy as a bee."

There are approximately 211,600 beekeepers in the U.S. They tend to more than 4 million beehives.

Bar-coding is used to check foods out of the supermarket. According to National Geographic News, researches are using bar codes to learn more about bees. Bar codes show what time individual bees leave the hive and when they return.

The bees wear the world's smallest bar codes. They are glued to the backs of worker bees between their wing bases. The miniature black-and-white labels are one tenth of an inch square and are read by a laser scanner. The information is stored in a computer.

The computer keeps track of the bees. How busy are bees? How far do they fly? How many pollen-gathering trips do they make each day. When do they wake up? When do they go to sleep? What kind of flowers or fruits do they like best?

This may help bee keepers to predict their honey yields more accurately.

While researches learn more about the busy bee, why don't you enjoy a piece of toast topped with honey?

A bee flies more than 55,000 miles and visits two million flowers to produce a single pound of honey.

"Woofer," a mixed border collie and sheepdog, eagerly ran the restored dog-powered treadmill, on display as part of Old Tyme Days at the Blaine Rentzel farm in York County. The treadmill was sold by Sears Roebuck and Co. for about $14, and favored by housewives who used the dog power to operate washing machines. Woofer and the treadmill were displayed by Jason Bange of Hanover. Old Tyme Days, a salute to the past by the South Central Penn Historic Lifestyle and Power Society, featured a wealth of historic agricultural and household artifacts.

Hello,

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Life is made up of many things rather than a few big ones. There are many chores that lay ahead as one starts a new day. Much of the work is routine such as doing the dishes, sweeping the floor and porches, feeding the cats and goldfish. Then comes decision making -- should I pick beans or cut more weeds with a machete and get another blister. Of course, the potato basket is empty too, so I'd better dig another bucketful.

We have four little black kittens and they are constantly underfoot as I work. They have flattened so many flowers and I'm glad it isn't spring as there would be no blooms for me to gather. I try to keep fresh bouquets on the kitchen and dining room tables all of the time.

It seems as though there is always a meal to plan. Are there any leftovers in the refrigerator or should I start fresh with food from the garden or freezer? Another question that looms eternally is whether or not to bake another cake or just have cookies and fruit.

Traveling to the mailbox always helps to break up the day. Will there be a letter from one of the children or just another feed bill? We surely get more than our share of letters asking for donations of one kind or another. Some envelopes are surprises like a notice of a new grandson or a distant cousin in Texas or a message from a co-traveler to Ireland who lives in New Jersey.

And not to be forgotten in daily routines is the telephone. Messages and more messages and do not forget to deliver them! Yesterday a phone call told me to prepare refreshments for 45 people on Saturday. Instructions included buying ice cream and toppings to make sundaes. I surely hope that I remember everything that's needed as it isn't something I do every day. But, it does add variety to life.

South Mountain Roundup

On Tuesday, August 29, the South Mountain 4-H Club held its annual round-up. Members and their families enjoyed a covered dish fellowship, which was followed by the presentation of awards. President Scott Grubb was assisted by Melanie Bushong, Michele Bushong, and Becky Elliott in the distribution of ribbons and premiums earned at the Lebanon Area Fair. First-year members also received South Mountain 4-H T-shirts; and the girls were given a 4-H bracelet and boys a 4-H wallet. Leaders then were recognized for their assistance in the various project areas and presented with a gift. The program was closed; and projects, which had been judged earlier in the day, were returned with ribbon achievement awards to the 4-H'ers. The next meeting will be a progressive dinner scheduled for October.

Conodoquinet Sheep

The Conodoguinet 4-H sheep club met August 12, at the New Carlisle fair. The club finalized plans for the picnic which will be held October 1 at the South-Middleton Park.

The Cumberland County 4-H Beef & Lamb clubs held their roundup Saturday, August 12, at the New Carlisle fairgrounds. The champion steer was raised by Mellissa Nailor. Stacy Suffel had reserve champion steer and Jeff Swank was senior champion showman. Stacy Suffel was intermediate and Jeff Foreman was junior champion and reserve champion lambs were owned by Stacy Suffel. Senior champion showman was Robby Keiter, Intermediate was Stacy Suffel and Junior was Michelle Cornman.

Start to erase years of damage to your system. Good nutrition can eleviate many health problems. The following are just a few testimonies of some of the many persons using Golden Pride Products.

Dear Golden Pride.

My daughter Laura is 10 now Two years ago, she was seriously ill At that time she was exposed to alot of xrays, (about 80 in one month) I was concerned about the effect this would have in later years A friend was telling me about Formula #1 and how it chelates toxic metals and minerals out of the system and #2 puts all the good back into the system My daughter has been sickly for years and she has numerous allergies She was on medication daily for it, because her eyes would blister badly and she'd have a lot of the ususal sneezing She started to take Formula #1-2-4 and in a week no more blisters, sneezing, or runny nose Four weeks later, we were at the fair for three days in a row. We walked through all the animal barns and still no blisters, sneezing or runny nose. IT WAS GREAT!

I should mention that before I put Laura on these products, I went to the hospital library and found for myself the ability of the chelating agent to pull out impurities It gave me great confidence that her system would be improved. I've noticed that it has also helped her nervous stomach I'm looking forward to trying your other products too.

Catch The Spirit Of Sharing At The Disaster Relief Auction

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.)

When global disaster strikes, many fail to respond because they fear their resources are "a drop in a bucket" for what is needed.

Dave and Belinda Graybill, coordinators for the 13th annual Disaster Relief Auction scheduled at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds on September 22 to 23, are giving people a chance to find out how significant their drop in the bucket can become. Auction goers are encouraged to drop money representing one hour of their yearly earnings in a designated container. In exchange participants receive a button proclaiming, "I gave one hour to D.R.A. '89."

Belinda explained, "A teenage babysitter will donate her one dollar an hour earnings, a businessman his $20 an hour wage.... Imagine the results if we all contribute just one hour!"

In its 12 year history, the auction has raised more than one million dollars for disaster relief in the U.S. and abroad.

When Belinda talks about the auction, she gets tears in her eyes. 'The auction is so special," she said. "When you see the thousands of people scattered across the fairgrounds and you realize how everyone works so hard to make the auction a success, it's overwhelming. It's the unity of love and people reaching out to help each other that makes this auction so special."

The auction offers traditional sale-item favorites such as 100 homemade quilts, handcrafted items, gift certificates, Winross trucks, lawn, garden and farm equipment, and antiques. Each year, the auction grows and grows, but it is not without dedicated efforts on the part of committee members who, each year, introduce some new ideas.

This year, in addition to the "Give a one hour wage," a new concept to promote giving will be promoted during the noon auction when "Grow money," will be distributed. An anonyomous donor contributed money that will be disbursed in $10 increments. Those who take the money will invest it in a project and see how much it grows until the next auction.

Belinda explained, "The concept is to plant a seed for those in need, to encourage others to use their talents to multiply God's blessing project."

The baked goods stand will offer 100 pies and other delicious baked items. Brethren cooks prove their cooking skills are tops when customers sample their homemade apple dumplings, soups, roasts and other goodies.

This early American style dollhouse with it's large, wrap-around front porch shows the detail that Ben Brubaker, a retired farmer, puts into his handcrafted doll houses. Ben spent 230 hours on this dollhouse that has 6,500 individual pieces and a datestone for authenticity.

Next year, the money is to be returned in the envelope. No names are required, but the person who used the grow money should record the amount grown.

Approximately 65 head of registered and grade Holsteins, Jerseys and other breeds plus two llamas will be auctioned. Although the heifer auction officially begins Friday, September 22 at 6:30 p.m., hundreds have been preparing for the event for many months.

One Bible School class had a project to buy a heifer. The farmer, from whom the class was purchasing the calf, brought the heifer to the church so the children could see what their pennies were buying to help others.

A Sunday School class drew a large picture of a heifer and displayed it on their classroom wall. Each week students colored in a section of the heifer to show how much of the heifer they could purchase until the heifer was completely paid.

No age is too young or too old to participate. Ruth Kniss, an 81-year-old resident of a nursing home, donated a Jumlau bride doll reproduction that she dressed. The doll is made from the original Jumlau mold. The doll has a bisque head and a fully jointed body. The Gibson style gown, head piece and bouquet was designed and sewn by the retired doll collector.

Kniss, who continues to repair and dress dolls despite her retirement, said that she donated the doll because "as a member we each do what we can."

The giving doesn't stop the day of the auction. Events such as Share-A-Meal continue throughout the year. In this project church members are encouraged to host a meal by listing the date, entree and number of people they will serve. The list is displayed at an auction stand. Recipients pay eight dollars per meal and sign up for the dinner which most appeals to them. The meal may be a chicken barbecue or it may be a buffet—whatever the host prefers to serve. The proceeds are added to the disaster relief fund.

Belinda Graybill admires the oil painting of "The Green Dragon Bridge," which will go to the highest bidder at the Disaster Relief Auction on September 23. Paul Brubaker, moderator of the Middle Creek Church of the Brethren, donated it.

Youth in the denomination's Atlantic North East District introduced the idea of an auction for disaster relief during the 1960s. They made $5,000 the first year. After several years the auction was discontinued until 1977 when it became an annual event.

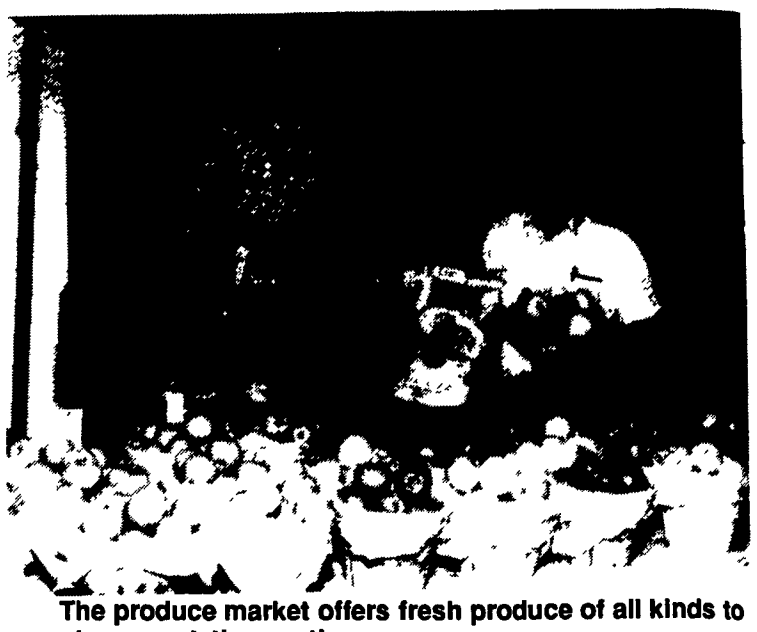
The auction proceeds go the the church headquarters, which disburses the money to those in need. Last year $252,458 was distributed for global disaster relief efforts such as haylifts that helped the midwestern drough relief.

"When you move around the fairgrounds and see the child who sold his calf to the highest bidder, the enthusiastic bidder who purchases a favorite quilt or painting, the crowd enjoying the delicious food—you realize how many people care," Belinda said. "It's our way of reaching out and touching peoples lives. It's telling people we care."

The committee hopes the auction will raise $280,000 to aid those hurting from natural disasters that destroy communities and families throughout the world.

The sale preview begins at 4:00 p.m. on Friday and the cattle auction at 6:30 p.m. Breakfast on sale day begins at 7:00 a.m. with the auction slated for 10 a.m. In addition to food stands there are baked goods, produce market and an art and craft show. For additional information, contact the Graybills at (717) 626-4276.

When 81-year-old Ruth Kniss offered to donate a doll, Belinda Graybill was surprised at the doll's elaborate attire. The Jumeau Bride Doll reproduction features a bisque head and fully jointed body. The Gibson style gown, headpiece and bouquet were designed and sewn by the 81-year-old doll collector.



The produce market offers fresh produce of all kinds to customers at the auction.

Folks Visit Island Of Nostalgia

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — A meadow in the Twin Bridges Campground was converted into an island of nostalgia for farmers over a certain age the weekend of August 11 through 13. They could once again hear the screech of a steam whistle and watch the huge, coal-fired steam engines power the machinery to saw wood, crush stones, split shingles and chop silage. A team of Belgians hitched to a plow stood ready so old-timers could work up a patch of ground the way they did 50 or more years ago.

But even those too young to remember the days of steam-powered machinery and horse-drawn plows were fascinated by the working displays. The owners of the machines and horses were never too busy to explain the how-and-why of the old-time methods they demonstrated.

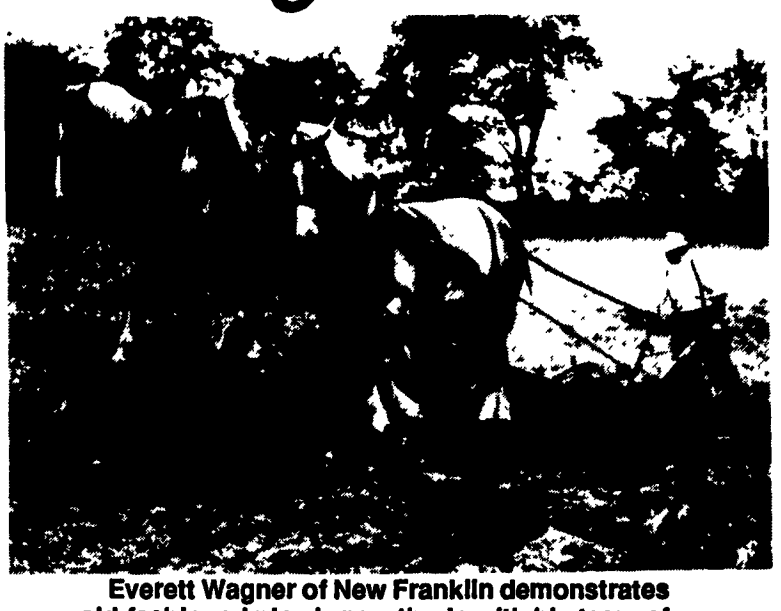
Interestingly enough, most of the machine owners and operators at the Cumberland Valley Antique Engine and Machinery Association's seventh annual show and demonstration were not old enough to remember when their machinery was considered modern farm equipment.

Chambersburg resident Bob Parmer — who is not an "old-timer" — related that his grandfather owned a steam-powered thrashing machine and went around to farms to do custom thrashing. In the winter time, he used the steam engine to crush stones for the roads.

"When my Dad went to work at the Frick company in Waynesboro in 1936, there were some of these steam engines — brand-new ones — sitting around that they couldn't sell," Parmer related. As tractors became more popular, steam-powered machinery went into a decline. "By World War II, steam power was out," he continued. "They took those brand-new engines and cut them up for scrap metal for the war effort."

His family has owned a 1921 Frick engine since 1955 and uses it to power machinery at various demonstrations. It was restored in 1969.

The Parmers were one of the first to arrive at the demonstration. By 4 p.m. Friday, 79 exhibitors had arrived in the meadow, with a total of 300-400 expected for the weekend.



Everett Wagner of New Franklin demonstrates old-fashioned plowing methods with his team of Belgians, Linda, Susie and Molly. He still uses the horses on his farm occasionally.

From the Pen Of The PA Dairy Princess

As I look back on my reign as PA State Dairy Princess, I realize what a privilege and honor it was to represent the Dairy Industry. Being chosen as State Princess not only meant representing the state's number one agricultural industry, but also each individual and "hard working" dairy farmer.

This year has enabled me to experience many once in a lifetime events. From county fairs to the State Farm Show, from meeting school children to Governor Casey, from milking contests to throwing out the first ball at a Senator's game, and going from snapshots to TV talk shows. All of which contributed equally to an exciting and memorable year.

Being a Dairy Princess has taught me many things about the dairy industry, agriculture and the dairy farmer. It has been an education that is very unique -- one that I could never have learned in a classroom. Traveling, public speaking, and responsibility have played major roles in my life this year, and through these I have grown, learned, and matured more than anyone can imagine.

When I look back to just moments after my reign began, I remember thanking my parents for raising me on a dairy farm, because without them, I would never have had the opportunity to be Dairy Princess. This year I have many more things to thank them for. Mom and Dad, it is hard for me to put into words what you both mean to me. Your love and encouragement has always been there. Thank-you for all your patience, support, and hard work that made this year possible for me to achieve. I love you. Also, I would like to thank my brother, Kevin: sister, Karen: and brother-in-law, Gary, for their help and interest in my activities. I always knew you were behind me all the way; supporting me in all my adventures-- Thanks!

Throughout this year, two very special people were always there for me to count on. They are Tammy Balthaser -- Pa 1st Alternate, and Laurie Sterner -- PA 2nd Alternate. Not only did we have a lot of fun and become great friends, but we truly accomplished a lot for the industry as a team. Thank you both for doing such a great job.

An extra special thank-you to the Beaver-Lawrence Promotion Committee and the dairymen for your interest and pride in what I was doing. It was an honor to represent you throughout the state this year. To the coordinators of PDPPS, I wish to thank you for all the love you have shown me and for filling my year with excitement, pride, and enthusiasm. A very special person who I have grown to love and respect is Jan Harding. Her encouragement, advice, and company made my year even more enjoyable.

In closing, I would like to thank everyone who played some role in making this the best year of my life. Although my year as PA Dairy Princess has come to an end, I will continue to promote the industry and the dairy farmer. I will treasure my memories forever!

Thank-you and God Bless!

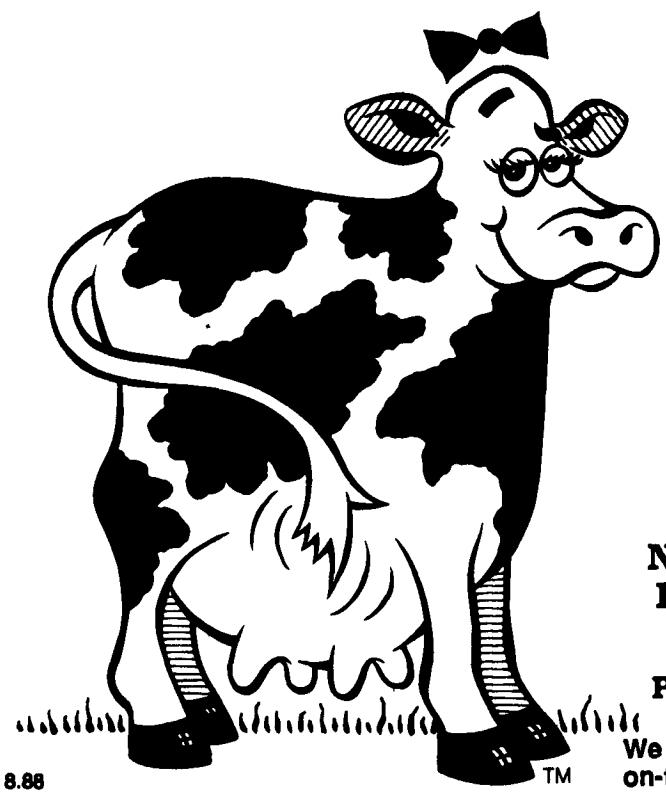
No small change when ordinary cows become SURPASS™ cows



When you feed your cows improved Surpass™ liquid supplement, there's potential for more than nickel and dime profit increases.

With the unique combination of natural, high bypass protein and NPN, Surpass helps your cows increase their potential for more milk production.

The higher nutrient density of Surpass also provides equal nutrition to dry supplements but in far less volume. That means your cows have room for more fiber. More fiber means increased potential for more butterfat and higher milk premiums.

More milk, more butterfat and in many instances lower cost than comparable dry supplements—all of that means a better dollar return on your feed investment with Surpass.

For details, ask for the new 12-page booklet, "See the Difference..." and learn how easy and profitable it can be to change ordinary cows into SURPASS cows.

SAVE$$$SAVE$$$SAVE$$$SAVE$$$
NON-UREA PRO-SIL Silage Activator NON-TOXIC
Do You Want To Cut Feed Costs This Winter? ? ?...
Pro-sil can raise your corn silage protein content to 16% and help you save over 50% in concentrate costs to balance your forage ration, with no urea in the formula. The savings are incredible! This is low input farming at its best.

One ton of Pro-sil added to corn silage will replace:
2.3 tons of 44% soybean meal	$862.50
500 lbs. of minerals	100.00
1750 lbs. of shelled corn	109.38
	$1071.88
One ton of Pro-sil costs	430.00
SAVINGS to balance 26.66 tons of 65% moisture corn silage	$641.88

Pro-sil is easily applied to corn silage at harvest time, is totally safe, increases palatability, is an excellent preservative.
Pro-sil works in the same way on high-moisture ground ear corn.
Pro-sil will decrease your grain bills drastically, increase milk production, increase butterfat, and greatly increase net income.
Pro-sil treated corn silage supplies additional protein to the total ration from a forage source instead of from a concentrate. This raises the total ADF (fiber) in the feed ration, improving feed utilization and thus increasing butterfat.
Pro-sil was developed by Michigan State University, and is FDA approved.
Pro-sil is manufactured by Ruminant Feed Services, Inc.

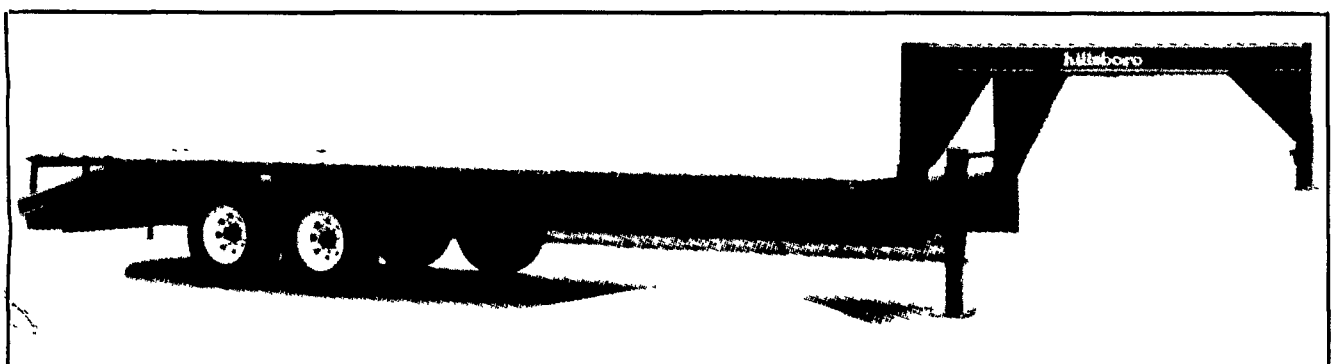
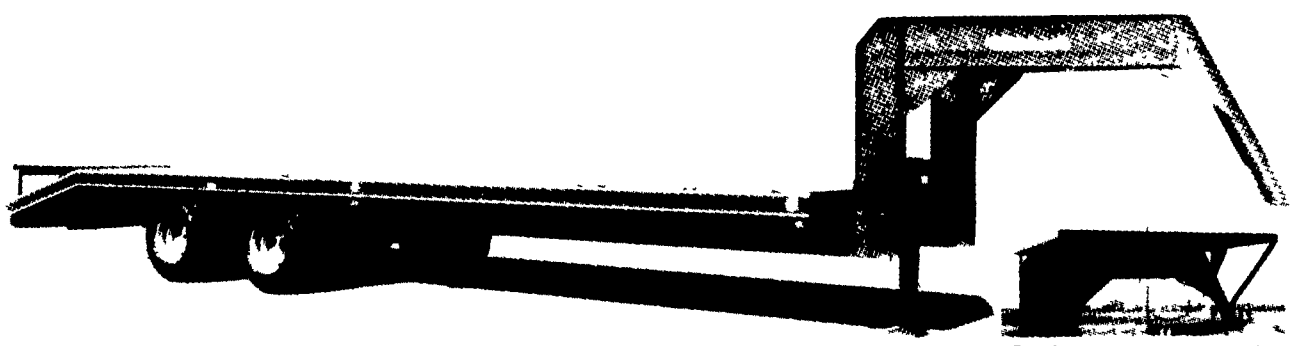
hillsboro flatbed trailer
with flip-up beaver tail



24 Foot Length Shown



28 Foot Length Shown

Optional deck over the neck is 7½ 'x8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles, the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value

EGG CLEANING FOR SMALL ON-FARM OPERATIONS

This is the second in a series of articles on washing eggs. The first appeared in the June 10 issue of Lancaster Farming and was titled "Why Wash Eggs?" Information for both of these articles can be found in a new brochure, "Tips for Washing Commercial Eggs." It is a publication of Mid-Atlantic Cooperative Extension, and it is available in quantities from the Department of Poultry Science, 224 Henning Bldg., University Park, PA 16802.

The basket submersion-type machine is primarily used for on-farm egg washing and usually holds between four and 10 gallons of solution. The following are important considerations for the efficient use of this machine in order to maximize the egg-cleaning process.

•Gather eggs frequently and wash them immediately.

•Wash water should be 20 degrees Fahrenheit higher than the egg temperature. Use only those machines where the temperature can be regulated and monitored by thermometers. Suggested temperatures are between 110 and 120 degrees F. Follow the manufacturer's instructions and never let the temperature fall below 110 degrees F.

•Use only potable water having an iron content of not more than 2 parts per million (ppm) to prevent the growth of bacteria.

•Follow the manufacturer's recommendations for the amount and kind of detergent to use. Use a good-quality detergent, but do not use household detergents—they may cause discoloration and or an undesirable flavor in the eggs.

•Eggs should not be immersed longer than is necessary to clean them. Because egg contents are damaged by prolonged exposure to high water temperatures, a timing device should be used to avoid leaving eggs in the machine for more than three minutes. Depending on the make and model of the egg washner, as well as the degree of soiled eggs, no more than two to five baskets of eggs should be washed before replacing the solution.

•Spray rinse eggs with water at a minumum of 3 to 10 degrees F (some suggest 20 degrees F) warmer than the detergent solution. For best results, dip the baskets in a sanitizer solution after rinsing. The sanitizer solution must be 3 to 10 degrees F (some suggest 20 degrees F) warmer than the detergent solution. Never expose the eggs to temperatures greater than 128 degrees F. When using a sanitizer, follow the manufacturer's instructions. Usually a minimum of 100 ppm of sanitizer should be maintained when applied to eggs. Test kits are available to determine the strength of sanitizer solution.

•Never put wet eggs into cartons or boxes because bacteria can be picked up by the wet eggs very easily. Also, wet eggs may stick to paper cartons.

•Clean and sanitize all of your equipment each time it is used to prevent the build up of bacteria and calcium deposits.

PA Shepherd's Symposium

Forage production and health are the main topics for the Fourth Annual Shepherd's Symposium to be held at the Sheraton Lancaster, December 8 & 9. New this year is a mini-tour scheduled for the afternoon of December 7 with an evening program on lamb marketing to be held at the Lancaster County Extension Center.

Dr. Robert Van Keuren, Ohio State University will address such topics as pasture systems for extending the grazing season and optimizing forage use during the gestation and lactation production phases. An added feature this year will be the presence of infrared forage analysis equipment for evaluating forage quality and nutritive value. Such information on your home-grown forages has proven to be both a big money saver on the winter feed bills and also a great teacher in acquiring a better understanding of forage quality and its impact on production.

Lamb mortality diagnosis and prevention, ovine progressive pneumonia, external parasite control and the prevention and treatment of nutritional disorders, e.g. Ketosis, are some of the major topics to be discussed by Dr. Joe Rook of Michigan State University and Dr. Thomas Drake and Dr. Robert Smith of Penn State University.

DFor the hand-craft folks and those interested in starting a small business, we have invited Dr. Jim Beierlien, Penn State University to speak on "Small Business Management and Marketing". Ginny Mutto of Huntingdon County will be conducting several workshops on handspinning.

Beginning shepherds will be interested in attending the workshop session on "Getting Started Right With Sheep" a topic to be addressed by Dr. Ron Parker of Henning, Minn. Dr. Parker is the author of the handbook for the modern Shepherd titled "The Sheep Book" pub. Charles Scribner's Sons, N.Y.

Other workshop sessions will be available on sheep handling concepts and equipment, ventilating existing sheep facilities, extending your grazing season using brassicas and a lean lamb production and marketing program for Pennsylvania producers.

Tour and program brochure materials are available by calling your local county extension offices or the PSU Conference Center on campus 814/865-8301. All advance lodging reservations can be made by calling the Sheraton Lancaster direct 717/299-8901. Deadline for special room rates is on or before November 7.

Plan now to attend a very educational program on progressive sheep.

National Pork Board Appointments Made

DES MOINES, IA — Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has reappointed four people to the National Pork Board and has made one new appointment. The five were chosen from a list of eight producers nominated in March by the National Pork Producers Delegate Body, which is a group of approximately 160 producers and importers from 50 states.

Linden Olson, Worthington, Minn.; Hilman Schroeder, Sauk City, Wis.; Gary Simpson, Ault, Colo.; and Harold Trask, Renwick, Ia. were reappointed to three year terms on the Board. Tom Miller, Maricopa, Ariz., was the newly appointed member, also to a three-year term.

The 15-member National Pork Board has the responsibility of collecting, disbursing and accounting for the use of funds from the national legislative checkoff of one quarter of one percent of the market value of all hogs sold in the United States and an equivalent amount of imported hogs, pork and pork products. One-third of the Board members are appointed each year.

At a regularly scheduled Pork Board meeting, August 27 in Charleston, S.C., Hilman Schroeder was elected president for the coming year. Harold Trask was named vice president.

Schroeder operates a medium size seedstock operation near Sauk City, Wis., while Trask operates a 230-sow, farrow-to-finish operation at Renwick, Ia., and markets 4,800 hogs annually. Schroeder has served two one-year terms as vice president of the Pork Board. Trask has served two years as the Board's budget committee chairman.

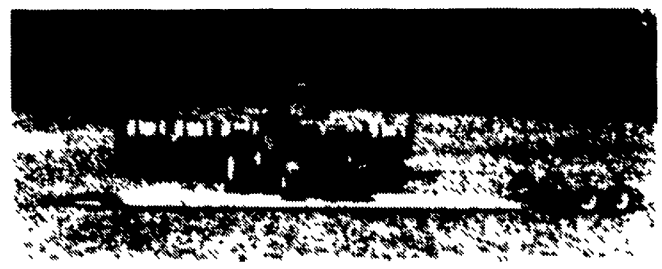
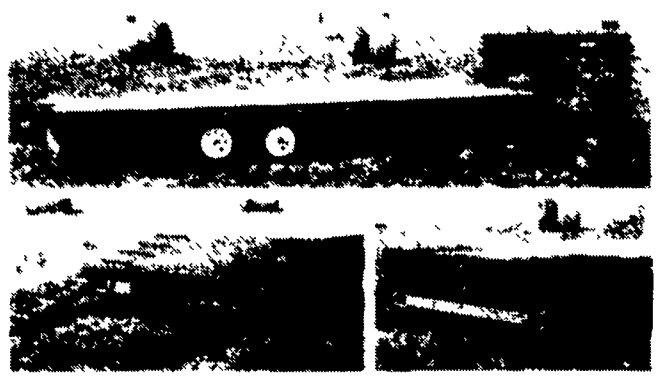
DONAHUE

An innovative company with over 25 years of experience in trailer manufacturing



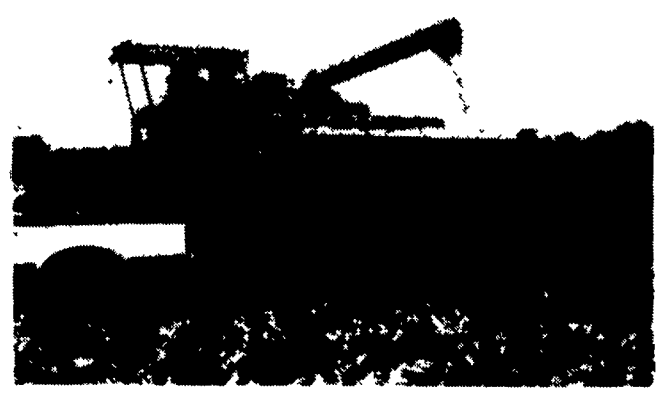
IMPLEMENT CARRIER - Bed lowers flat on the ground for quick loading & unloading. Simply drive tractor across, towing equipment onto bed.

Once equipment has been towed onto carrier, bed is backed up over wheels and secured in place. Simple to operate, no hydraulics.



FLATBED TRAILERS - Change the position of the hinged beavertail in seconds. Down it's a beavertail with slide out ramps, in the up position you gain 4 ft. of extra bed length.

STOCK TRAILERS - No inside fender wells with the lower 18" of side wall made from 10 ga. steel to eliminate early rust out. Slam latch on both center & rear gate.



GRAIN TRAILERS - Use your pickup with a grain trailer and avoid the high price of a farm truck. Trailers are equipped with hydraulic hoist, push button hydraulic jack leg and flotation tires.

EXPANDABLE 812 - A new concept in trailers, designed to transport extra wide equipment safely. The trailer floor expands hydraulically from 8 ft. to 12½ ft. in width.

1st LAW Of Hoober Reconditioned Axial-Flow Combines

SEVEN (7) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO (≠) WORN OUT

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

2nd LAW Of Hoober Reconditioned Axial-Flow Combines

2500+HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE.

2500+ hours on a conventional combine usually means it will be too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 2500+ hours reconditioned by Hoober's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.

3rd Law Of Hoober Reconditioned Axial-Flow Combines

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

3429 NEW

There are plenty of big reasons why you should plant 3429. For starters, this high-yielding, big-eared hybrid has very good stalks, exceptional test weight, and very good grain quality. Better still, it has very good late-season plant health and tolerance to most diseases, a real plus for the East. So there are plenty of big reasons to plant plenty of 3429.

3343

Ask growers who have planted 3343 about its performance, and they'll all agree — under top management, it's one of the best when it comes to yield. It's also hard to beat when it comes to other important agronomic traits. A strong seedling vigor makes it adaptable to early planting and reduced tillage situations. It also offers strong roots and stalks for dependable standability. Plant one of the best hybrids around — plant 3343.

3241 NEW

This promising new multi-purpose hybrid has what it takes to fill a variety of needs from planting to harvest. First, it starts with strong emergence and early vigor. Next, it supplies good disease tolerance and excellent staygreen. All these combine to give you a great versatile hybrid all season long.

3140

The traits bred into 3140 give you excellent staygreen and lasting late-season plant health. 3140 is a tall plant with high ear placement. Performing well at lower planting rates, it displays good ear-flex capabilities and good drought tolerance. It also tolerates most common leaf diseases including gray leaf spot. 3140 provides the right genetic package to get the job done.

Hamp, York, Duroc

Pennsylvania's Finest Breeding Hogs Shine At Show, Sale

BY LISA RISSER

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Pork producers from around the state came with their finest boars and gilts to Lebanon County to compete in the first Yorkshire, Hampshire, Duroc breeding show and sale. Several father and son duos earned top honors in the competition.

Jim and Gus Parlett of Airville led the Duroc contest with a couple of Hill Top produce. Judge Henry Holloway of Darlington, Md., chose a February Hill Top son to be the champion Duroc boar. The champion is out of TM Fanny 2-1 and is a littermate to the top-selling gilt at the '89 Indiana State Fair.

The Parletts' other Hill Top champion is an October '88 bred gilt out of TM Belle.

Nabbing the champion Duroc open gilt title was an entry from Ken Fetterolf of Centre Hall. His gilt is a January LD8 Flatbush daughter out of Diesel 10-3. The gilt is a littermate to the second-place gilt at the Ohio State Fair.

Ken Winebark of Lebanon added another win to his string with an open Hampshire gilt. His champion February Adidas daughter is out of Colts Belle 26-2, who is a littermate to the Farm Show's highest-selling Hampshire gilt. Adidas was the 1987 Barrow Show Champion, and the gilt is a littermate to the reserve champion boar of the '89 Ohio State Fair.

A Smoke 4-1 daughter was the champion Hampshire bred gilt showed by Lee Bixler and family of Four Oaks Farm in York Springs. The gilt is out of Cora 8-9, a Cal daughter.

Showing the champion and reserve champion Hampshire boars was a father-son pair from Annville. Charlie and Daryl Bomgardner of Blue Mountain View Farms exhibited the January boars that caught judge Holloway's eye. Charlie's boar, a Classic son out of Miss Buster was named champion, while Daryl's George son out of Werewolf was reserve. George sired last year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition top-cutting Hampshire, and Werewolf is Daryl's youth project.

Another father-son combination took top honors in the Yorkshire open gilt competition. Charlie Hall of Julian ran a January LLA7 Ultra daughter before the judge, who named her champion. Daryl Bomgardner of Annville entered the top bid of $320 for the gilt, making it the event's top-selling open gilt.

Taking the reserve championship Yorkshire title was Mark Hall's February PSU7 Step Up 1-5 daughter out of CBH7 Pride.

Leon Arnold of Lebanon exhibited the champion Yorkshire bred gilt, a September '88 daughter of Ultra out of Lucy 63-2. The gilt is bred to Puff, who Arnold purchased at the first Rural Pork Expo in Des Moines. Lucy has had four litters and farrowed 51 piglets of which 50 were weaned. Arnold's champion was the show's top-selling bred gilt and sold for $500 to Keith Martin of Hamstead, Md.

The champion Yorkshire boar was led out by Jack Clark of Hustontown. The hog is a January son of WGW7 Stetson out of JES8 Miss Toto. Mountain View Farm of Fayetteville must have liked the boar as it paid $750 for it, making it the show's top-selling boar.

A total of 69 head were shown and sold for $13,350. A partial list of the results follows.

This Hill Top son was named champion Duroc boar at the Pennsylvania Yorkshire, Hampshire, Duroc Breeding Show and Sale. The boar is owned by Gus Parlett and his family.

The champion Yorkshire open gilt was Charlie Hall's Ultra daughter. The gilt was shown by Mark Hall.

The champion Duroc bred gilt was shown by James Parlett and sons. Gus Parlett was the showman.

Lee Bixler and his son, Ben, stand with their champion Hampshire bred gilt, a Smoke daughter.

A January Stetson son, this boar, owned by Jack Clark, was named the champion Yorkshire boar. It was shown by Rick Truax.

The champion Hampshire open gilt was an entry shown by Ken Winebark and family. The gilt is an Adidas daughter out of Colts Belle 26-2 and a littermate to the reserve champion boar at the '89 Ohio State Fair.

Blue Mountain View Farms, represented by owner Charlie Bomgardner, showed the champion Hampshire boar.

Only Farm Credit Has Loan Officers Who Were Trained In The Field.

While you were growing up on the farm going to 4-H, FFA, maybe even AG school, do you know what your Farm Credit loan officer was doing?

Same thing.

Not many bankers can say that.

True, they can make loans nine ways to Sunday. But, now your Farm Credit loan officer can, too. Over the last few years our people have gone through extensive training at making every kind of farm loan imaginable. Now a Farm Credit loan officer can give you the lowdown on rates, options and creative financing as well as any city banker can.

And around here, our Farm Credit loan officers have the power of approval that's equal to most bank presidents.

So the next time you need to get a farm loan, think about this for just a moment.

Then let one of our Farm Credit loan officers prove to you what we've been saying all along. That bankers can't be farmers. But farmers can be bankers.

Deere Presents End-Wheel Drills

MOLINE, IL — John Deere has introduced a new end-wheel drill series to replace the 8000 series. Several new features have been added to increase productivity and efficiency over previous models.

The 450 end-wheel drill is available in 8-, 10-, 12-, and 13-foot models and the front-folding drill is available in 32- and 36-foot models. The front-folding drill has 20 degree flaxibility -- 20 degrees up and 20 degrees down -- to deliver the seed and fertilizer consistently over uneven or terraced ground.

A new three-position divider in the 452 grain/fertilizer box allows 100 percent grain, 60 percent grain/40 percent fertilizer or 40 percent grain/60 percent fertilizer combinations. The components are removable to make cleaning easy. Bulkheads are positioned within the box to prevent sudden shifting of material and to allow each section to empty evenly.

A medium or large grain box -- two of the largest boxes in the grain drill market -- are available: 2.0 bushels per foot (plain grain); 2.8 bushels per foot (grain/fertilizer); 2.4 bushels per foot (plain grain); and 3.4 bushels per foot (grain/fertilizer).

The opener's down-pressure has been increased by 35 percent with new heavy-duty down-pressure springs and a new 1.25-inch square pressure shift.

A choice of furrow openers, to match new row spacings, allows the farmers to create a furrow in almost any condition. Choices include a 13-inch single disk opener for new 6-, 7.5-, or 10-inch row spacing; a 14-inch semi-deep single disk opener for 7.5- or 10-inch spacing; and double-disk openers for 6-, 7.5-, or 10-inch row spacing. Opener row spacing availability varies with the model selected. Openers are available in cast iron for wet or sticky soils and aluminum for normal conditions.

John Deere's new 13-foot, 450 end-wheel drill is one of five new models available in November. An 8- or 10-foot width is available as well as 32- or 36-foot front-folding models. The drills' opener down-pressure has been increased by 35 percent with a choice of furrow openers to match new row spacings.

Four gang press wheels are available -- 2x13-inch, 1x12-inch, 4x12-inch smooth crown, and 4x12-inch double-rib.

Four depth-gauging attachments -- Tru-Vee, adjustable depth gauge wheel, depth band (also available for double-disk openers with cast-iron boots), and a depth-gauging press wheel -- were featured on previous models and are designed to control furrow depth and attach to the double-disk openers.

Fluted-feed seed meters are standard on all drills and the double-run seed meters are optional on the 13-foot plain grain model.

Attachments available for field conversion include row markers, multi-unit hitches, furrow openers, depth-gauging, drive conversions, plus several others.

The 450 series drills will be available November 1.

Alfa-Laval Acquires Universal Dairy Product Line

KANSAS CITY, MO — Alfa-Laval Agri, Inc., the world's largest manufacturer and supplier of dairy equipment and supplies has purchased the assets of Universal Dairy Equipment from Universal Cooperatives, Inc. of Bloomington, Minnestoa. The terms of the sale and price were not disclosed.

While the companies had announced an agreement to complete the transaction in May of this year, the effective date of the transfer of assets was set to coincide with the end of Universal Cooperative's fiscal year on July 31. Universal Dairy Equipment will operate under the name Universal Dairy Equipment, Inc. as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Alfa-Laval Agri, Inc., and will remain a separate business unit with a separate and distinct line of products, sales force and distribution. Universal brand milking systems, dairy supplies and electronic feeding systems are sold through agricultural cooperative outlets and a regional network of independent dealers. Prior to the sale, Universal was believed to be the nation's fourth largest maker of dairy farm equipment.

According to Alfa-Laval Agri President Terry Blanks, who has also temporarily assumed the duties of president of Universal Dairy Equipment, Inc., ""Offering two distinct lines of equipment, supported by totally separate administrative, technical and marketing organizations, actually brings us more in line with Alfa-Laval's approach to dairy markets in other parts of the world. Rather than combine the two operations in any way, Universal will maintain a high degree of autonomy."

All operating functions of Universal Dairy Equipment are to move from Goshen, Indiana to facilities in the headquarters of Alfa-Laval Agri in Kansas City, Missouri. Key Universal employees involved in sales management, marketing, technical support and distribution will transfer to the new location with some staff additions considered likely. The existing Universal field sales staff will not change. Under an ongoing general supply agreement, certain product will continue to be manufacturerd at the Universal Cooperative plant in Goshen.

Jan Rule, Universal Dairy Equipment, Inc. director of sales, said, "Throughout a history spanning almost 50 years, Universal has built a reputation on quality products and a high level of service. We expect that tradition to continue backed by the full support of the entire Alfa-Laval organization."

"We see many long-term benefits from our association with a full-line dairy equipment manufacturer. But, for the time being," adds Rule, "we expect it to be 'business as usual' for those selling, servicing or using Universal equipment."

Universal Cooperatives President Pat Finley said, "The Universal board of directors determined the sale of our dairy lines to a fine organization like Alfa-Laval was in the best interest of our members and dealers, thus allowing Universal's management to devote more attention and resources to other needs of our member cooperatives."

Finley emphasized that only the dairy equipment lines were involved in the sale, and no other operations or products of the cooperatives are to be affected.

Universal Cooperatives is an interregional farm supply cooperative with total sales of $250 million a year. Universal supplies 29 member cooperatives with farm and home supplies, tires, batteries and lubricants, ag chemicals, animal health and nutrition products, livestock equipment, paint and other products.

Alfa-Laval Agri, Inc. is part of the Alfa-Laval Group, a $2 billion company based in Sweden. In addition to its headquarters and manufacturing, distribution and research facilities in Kansas City, Alfa-Laval Agri has a large manufacturing plant near Poughkeepsie, New York. The company's products are sold exclusively through a national network of more than 350 DeLaval dealers.

Badger Northland Introduces Power Shuttle Feeder

KAUKAUNA, Wisc. — A new power shuttle feeder, designed for fast, simple feed distribution, is now available from Badger Northland, Wisconsin-based manufacturer of materials handling agricultural equipment.

The Badger BN8900 power shuttle feeder features a unique "trap door" feed drop system that eliminates the need for conveying belts or chains in livestock feeders. A simple, trouble-free opening mechanism "slides away" the feeder bottom, dropping the entire feed load into the bunk quickly, quietly and dependably. This low-cost, innovative approach to center charge feeders greatly simplifies and speeds up large-scale feeding operations.

Badger's power shuttle feeder features a heavy 14-gauge galvanized steel trough that resists rust and corrosion. The rugged, high-capacity trough can handle the volume from three or more silo unloaders. In addition, a pivoting support arm opens and closes the trough, allowing for total emptying of the feeder with no feed separation.

The BN8900 feeder's simple, economical and compact worm gear drive unit allows power to flow directly through the gear box to the heavy-duty cast iron drive gear. In most cases, only one horsepower is needed to operate even the longest feeders. The power shuttle feeder also features a heavy gauge drive track to assure positive travel and solid state switching to provide non-mechanical reversing. Mechanical switching is required for three phase power.

The BN8900 feeder's option of select feeding allows dairy and cattle farmers to reduce overall costs by automating feed handling and grouping cattle according to production state. While select feeding for up to four groups is available, more pen divisions and variations can be accomplished depending on installation requirements.

Badger Northland, an employee-owned company, has been building center charge feeders for nearly 30 years.

For more information on the Badger BN8900 Power Shuttle Feeder contact: Chet Gibbons, Badger Northland Inc., 1215 Hyland Avenue, Kaukauna, Wisconsin 54130-0912 or call 414/766-4603.

Calderazzo Steer Wins York Open Show

BY LISA RISSER

YORK (York Co.) — In a repeat performance, Jennifer Calderazzo of York and her steer, Montana, pulled out the grand champion steer title at the York Fair open show. Earlier in the week the pair had won the same title in the 4-H show.

The 13-year-old daughter of Dr. Joesph and Sally Calderazzo, Jennifer named her Angus after football player Joe Montana, at her father's suggestion. The May steer is out of a Pine Drive daughter sired by Line Drive. Jennifer purchased the 1,220-pound animal from the family's Angus breeding operation, GH2 Angus.

The next stop on the show circuit for Jenniefer and Montana will be the Keystone International Livestock Exposition followed by the York County 4-H Beef roundup, where Montana will be sold.

Jamie Boyer's Big Boy, a Limousin-Simmental cross, took reserve champion honors in the open show. The heavyweight steer's win surprised Boyer who wasn't sure the animal would do well.

The 18-year-old son of Jim and Joanne Boyer of East Berlin, Jamie has had champions before, including the 1988 Adams County Roundup champion. He, too, will take his steer to KILE, and when the animal is sold in October, some of the money will go into Jamie's Ford truck.

Former York Countian John Hausner of The Plains, Va., returned to his county to judge the show.

Two 4-H'ers received special recognition during the open show. Sandy Eisenhour and James Fitzgerald received the outstanding junior herdsman award.

Sponsored by WD Angus Ranch, owned by the Bill Dietz family, the award recognizes the sportsmanship, helpfulness, and courteousness of 4-H'ers involved in beef projects.

Both Eisenhour and Fitzgerald are members of the York County 4-H meats judging team, the York County beef club, and the Pennsylvania Junior Angus Association. In addition, Eisenhour is a member of the county's 4-H livestock judging team.

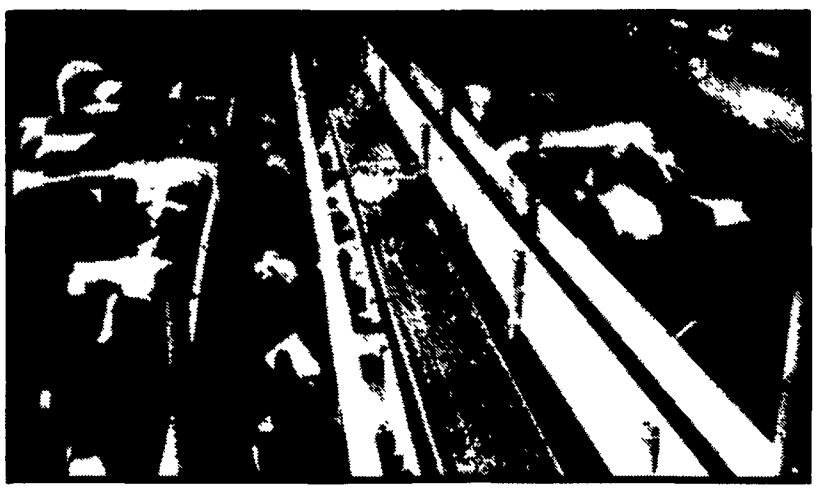
Patz Belt Feeders adapt to your setup

Feed one to six lots different rations with lengths to 200 feet.

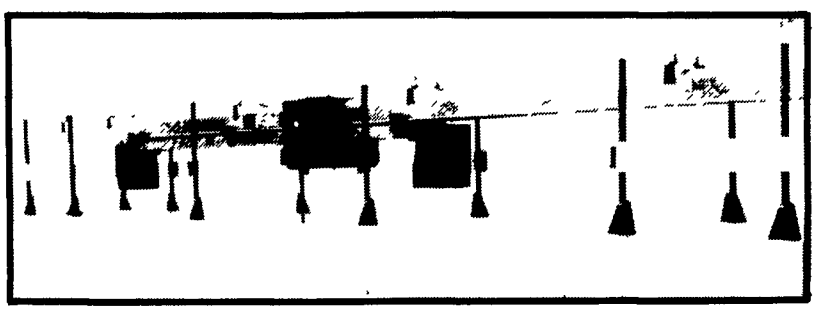
Patz Belt Feeders mount easily on either side of your feed bunk or in the middle. Or mount from the ceiling inside the barn.

End loading can minimize conveyor investment. You can even convey and feed with one machine.

Choice of 12-inch or 16-inch belt. Ask about the full line of Patz feeders.



Patz Shuttle Feeder provides direct drive



The Patz center-charged Shuttle Feeder offers positive drive for sure starting. An instant-reverse motor connects directly to a worm-gear reducer that transfers power to the drum-cable drive.

A pin-type torque limiter prevents torque overload. The drum-and-cable drive pulls the shuttle back and forth.

A wide 16-inch belt distributes high volume of feed.

Mounts easily in bunks or on ceilings, making it ideal for in-barn feeding. Optional swivel spout pivots to feed two rows of cows.

Optional diverter allows split-lot feeding in bunks.

Empire Bay Takes The Spotlight At Maryland Futurity

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — Maryland State Fairs spotlights were on Cameron Davis from Union Bridge as he paraded this year's Miss Maryland Futurity. His entry, Empire-Bay Rambo Caprina, is a Robton Ramses daughter. He purchased Caprina's dam, VG Sterling Dale EP Capree, from a sale in New York and bred this outstanding three-year-old.

Cameron, his wife, Ann, her twin brother Tom, and his wife farm in partnership on Ann's parent's farm, which goes by the prefix, Unicorn Associates.

Caprina competed in the largest futurity to date with 34 entries. This was the largest class with 110 animals making the final nominations in January. There were 785 animals entered when these three-year-olds were calves. Since that time, the owners have paid three additional nominations to remain eligible for this year's purse of $3,960. Caprina not only took home $710 in first-place prize money, but also a pewter punch bowl set.

The judge for this year's event was a familiar face to Marylanders, Paul King. His family had the well-known Kingstead Farm in Damascus. Former owner of Kingway Farm in Pennsylvania and now retired in West Virginia, Paul commented that it was great to be back in Maryland. "Maryland is a fine breeder of show cattle with this futurity highlighting some of the outstanding three-year-olds," said Paul. Caprina walks on a correct set of hind legs and has a super rear udder, he added after he placed her on top of the class.

David Hill had the second place entry, Hills-Hope Val Cindy Mae-ET. She is a SWD Valiant daughter out of Hills-Hope Cindy.

Herman Bendig was the top production winner with 24,802 pounds of fat corrected milk. His entry, Henry-H Tony Nicole, is a Marshfield Elevation Tony daughter out of Henry-H Creek Naughty.

The Futurity was graced this year with two vintage cars to escort the officials into the showring. Don Royston from Lutherville brought his 1923 Roll Royce Silver Ghost Touring Car to chauffeur ringmen John Morris, Norman Hill and Marion Andrew. Ed Cochran drove his red '57 Chevrolet convertible to escort the dairy princess and her court.

Youth Shows Champion Market Sheep In York Fair Open Show

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Mike Klinedinst and his muscled, gray-fleeced homebred ewe lamb made it two-for-two Sunday at the York Fair, taking a second market lamb championship in as many days.

The 16-year-old Stewartstown exhibitor topped the open class market lamb competition, just as he had the 4-H class one day prior, with his homebred Hampshire-Dorset cross. Klinedinst is a firm believer in exercise for winning lambs and he walked his champion more than a mile each day.

In the reserve champion placing was another ewe entry, exhibited by Ed and Lou Ann Keeny of York. The purebred Hampshire, a homebred, was born in January at the couple's Jacobus farm, and grown on a special formulated ration.

Taking weight class championships in the open class market lamb show were Melissa Trostle of Red Lion and Mike Klinedinst in the lightweight class, and Mike Klinedinst and David Myers in the mediumweight class. In the light heavyweight division, Mike Klinedinst and K-N-K Livestock were champion and reserve champion, respectively with Ed Keeney showing the champion over Matt Trostle in the heavyweight class.

Cargill Plans Vermont Feed Mill

SWANTON, VT. — Cargill's Nutrena Feed Division recently announced plans for a $4-million feed mill here that will have the capacity to manufacture more than 80,000 tons of animal feed annually.

Site preparation is underway and construction is scheduled for completion by fall 1990.

Tom Koldys, branch manager at Swanton, said the new mill will allow the company to provide better service to its growing number of dairy-feed and farm-store customers.

The facility will supply dealers and livestock producers throughout northern Vermont and northeastern New York with feeds marketed under the Nutrena and Beacon brands. The new mill will replace an older mill in Swanton.

"The farm-store business, which includes manufacturing and marketing funds for horses and pets, is a rapidly expanding segment of our business." he said.

The Swanton mill was part of Nutrena's 1985 acquisition of The Beacon Milling Company. Other Nutrena mills in the Northeast are in Bethel, Vt., and Albany, Liverpool, Gouverneur and Horseheads, N.Y.

The report by regions; northern, 59 percent short, 36 percent adequate and 5 percent surplus; central, 48 percent short and 52 percent adequate; and southern, 33 percent short and 67 percent adequate.

PASS issued the following weekly report on crop conditions:

CORN: By week's end, the crop was 10 percent in the pre-silk stage of development, 43 percent in the silk stage, 37 percent in the dough stage and 10 percent in the dent stage. A year ago, the progress was 3 percent pre-silk, 28 percent silk, 43 percent dough, 23 percent dent and 3 percent mature. The five-year average is 1, 17, 45, 32 and 5 percent, respectively. The crop's condition was rated 24 percent excellent, 39 percent good, 22 percent fair, 10 percent poor and 5 percent very poor.

TOBACCO: The survey showed that the tobacco acreage was 47 percent harvested, 12 percentage points ahead of last year's progress.

POTATOES: At week's end, 33 percent of the acreage was harvested, compared with last year's 29 percent.

FRUIT: The peach harvest progressed to 73 percent, 4 percentage points ahead of last year. The apple harvest advanced to 21 percent, while a year ago it was 25 percent.

The third cutting was at 42 percent, while a year ago the figure was 67 percent. The fourth cutting was reported 13 percent complete, compared with 21 percent at the same time in 1988. The second cutting of clover-timothy was 71 percent complete, while a year ago the progress was 86 percent. The quality of hay made was rated good by 53 percent, fair by 42 percent and poor by 5 percent. The amount of feed being obtained from pastures was reported above average by 8 percent, average by 68 percent and below average by 24 percent of survey participants.

Gay Ridge Holsteins Reigns Supreme At Maryland Fair

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — The show string that Gay Ridges Holtesins from Ijamsville brought to the Maryland State Fair Holstein show was outstanding. Eight of their 16 animals placed on the top of their classes. C Hanson Prestar Mona Lisa was the cream of their string as this first-place four-year-old took home the senior and grand champion rosettes.

Judge Paul King from Warfield, WV, praised her size and scale. "I love her udder", he said. "She has the breed character we all should look for in our animals." A Leadfield Prestar daughter, Mona Lisa was also best udder in her class.

Donald, Mary Louise, and Greg Wilcom also took the reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors. Their aged cow, C Cathland Lilac, also took best udder title in her class. Gay Ridge Holsteins placed first in the junior heifer calf class, two-year-old cow, three-year-old cow, four-year-old cow, dry cow under 4 years of age and aged cow as well. They placed second in the long-time production class. This sweep of the cow classes allowed them to easily win the coveted premier exhibitor banner.

The junior champion, the first-place senior yearling, Da Vista Brent Krispy, was also a Greg Wilcom animal. She is owned jointly with Marion Andrews and Norman Voss Jr.

The reserve junior champion was owned by O. Clayton Smith. His second-place senior yearling heifer, Ulitmates Inspiration Lori, took home the rosette.

Marlin Hoff had quite a day in the group classes. His animals won the senior best three females, produce of dam, long time production and Maryland's best bred and owned classes. The last two classes were won by Coldsprings Ira Kewpie. This excellent 9-year-old cow is a Coldsprings Ira daughter with a record of 32,599 pounds of fat correct milk. Marlin recently was elected to the position of national director of the Holstein Association.

My Ladys-Manor Farm Inc. received the premier breeder banner and Savage-Leigh took the winning exhibitors herd.

Delaware Scedules Farm Safety Week

NEWARK, DE — Governor Castle has proclaimed the week of September 17-23 Farm Safety Week in Delaware. This coincides with the 46th annual observance of National Farm Safety Week.

According to T.C. Gilchrest, president of the Chicago-based National Safety Council, "Our farms lose nearly 3,000 lives and five billion dollars every year because of preventable accidents and fires. Though farming certainly has its hazards, those engaged in it can still prevent most accidental injuries, deaths and work-related illnesses with practical measures and safe, sensible work methods."

The National Safety Council, a primary sponsor of the week, estimates that agriucltural work accidents resulted in more than 1,500 deaths and 140,000 disabling injuries in 1988. The accidental death rate for agriculture was 48 per 100,000 workers, higher than any other major industry. The composite rate for all industries was nine per 100,000.

Delaware Extension safety specialist Ron Jester says, "Farm accidents continue to take their toll in Delaware despite a concerted effort by the farm organizations, allied industry and the Delaware Cooperative Extension system. According to the latest figures, there were approximately 400 disabling injuries and one fatality in 1988." The leading cause of farm accidents in Delaware, Jester adds, is power and hand tools and shop equipment.

Nationally, several thousand farmers and farm workers also suffered work-related illnesses caused by excessive exposure to toxic gases, chemicals, dust, sun, noise and other farm health hazards.

Jack Burke, agricultural safety specialist of the National Safety Council, makes an important distinction between farming and the typical job. "Most people leave home and go to another location to work. Their families are not exposed to the hazards of the workplace. But most farm families live on the work site, and everyone is exposed to its hazards, even small children.

Furthermore, Burke points out, while the usual range of working ages is 16 to 65 in most industries, the ages of farm workers range from 8 to 80. "Farm children begin helping with work at an early age, even operating machinery better suited to adults," Burke says. "And many individuals continue farming well past other industries' standard retirement age of 65. This is reflected in a high rate of accidental death and injury at both ends of the age spectrum."

PDA Signs Agreement With Penn State

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A federal court has fined Poly Foods, Inc., of Brooklyn, N.Y., $30,000 for holding and shipping adulterated meat and poultry products, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said today.

Poly Foods, Inc., a wholesale food distributor, entered guilty pleas to three felonies in violation of the federal meat and poultry inspection acts, according to Lester M. Crawford, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

In March 1986, an FSIS compliance officer found 260 pounds of boneless beef held under unsanitary conditions, 700 pounds of poultry contaminated with rodent gnaw marks and feces, and 800 pounds of uninspected pork chops. David Chan, president of Poly Foods, destroyed the adulterated and uninspected products, Crawford said.

Later, FSIS was notified that the company continued to violate the inspection laws. The agency turned all evidence over to the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of New York.

The company was charged with holding meat and poultry under unsanitary conditions, offering for sale and transporting the adulterated product, and offering for sale uninspected meat products.

After the company pled guilty to the three felony counts, the court ordered $30,000 in fines and a $25 assessment for each count. The court also deferred Chan's prosecution as long as he complies with specific terms in an agreement, which includes not violating any federal, state or local laws for six months.

FSIS ensures the safety, wholesomeness and accurate labeling of meat and poultry products as they move through distribution channels.

MDA Starts Christmas Tree Hotline

ANNAPOLIS, MD — The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) wants to hear from groups and individuals who are planning to operate retail Christmas tree lots this year.

MDA's Market Research & Development Group, in cooperation with the Maryland Wholesale Christmas Tree Association, has compiled a list of Maryland Wholesale Christmas tree growers who have an extensive selection of trees available for this season. The list gives the grower's name, address, phone number, and the quantity, variety and size of trees for sale.

Wholesale buyers should be shopping now if they want to insure a dependable supply of desirable trees before the Christmas season. The "Wholesale Hotline" currently lists 14 growers with over 50,000 trees for sale. A wide variety of sizes and species are offered by the Maryland Growers.

The Market Research and Development Group will be operating the Christmas Tree Wholesale Hotline from now until Christmas. The hotline is subject to change daily as new growers are added and other growers sell out of trees.

Interested persons should write to: "Christmas Tree Hotline," Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, or phone (301) 841-5770 or, in Maryland, 800/492-5590.

DeKalb Pfizer To Use Soy Ink On Seed Bags

DEKALB, IL — When farmers pick up their DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics soybean seed next spring, they'll notice the seedbags were printed with ink made from soybean oil. About 3 million DeKalb-Pfizer soybean seedbags will be printed in 1990 with the ink and bear the American Soybean Association (ASA) teardrop-shaped ink emblem.

"As far as we know, DeKalb-Pfizer is the first company to use this special ink in printing its seedbags," says Dave Voss, DeKalb-Pfizer Soybean Product Manager. The biodegradable soy ink works well with the type of paper in newspapers and seedbags. "We are continuing to monitor work toward an ink that can be used with other types of paper, like our seed catalog," he adds.

The new look is part of continuing efforts by the company to promote and use the products it sells, notes Kathy Brigham, Production Operations, who is responsible for all of the company's seed packaging. "I think farmers and agribusinesses should be interested in additional uses for their products, whether it's ethanol, plastics and sweeteners made from corn, or soybean ink," she contends.

DeKalb-Pfizer decided to try soybean-oil ink last January. Initially company personnel hoped to use the special ink on seedbags for the 1989 growing season. Because most printers are unaccustomed to working with soy ink, DeKalb-Pfizer personnel had difficulty finding a bag manufacturer willing to use the biodegradable ink.

Recently the company signed an agreement with Chase Packaging Corp., based in Connecticut, to handle printing the soybean seedbags for 1990. Chase is the same company that manufactures DeKalb biodegradable corn seedbags.

Angus Cattle Dominate York 4-H Beef Breeding, Steer Shows

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York CO.) — Jennifer Calderazzo notched another accomplishment in her 4-H beef exhibiting career, claiming the grand champion market steer honors at the York Fair.

Though the York teenager has gathered numerous ribbons for exhibiting the Dr. Joseph Calderazzo family's GH2 homebred Angus, this was the first win of the top place in the hotly contested market steer classes. Jennifer purchased the 1,220-pound Montana, named for noted football player Joe Montana, from the family's Angus breeding operation for use as her project steer. The purebred topped his light heavyweight class prior to claiming the champion title.

Taking the reser vhampion honors with her heavyweight division winner was 16-year-old Robin Shive. Her entry was a homebred, 1,295-pound Angus, dubbed Balki after a character on a favorite television show of the Seven Valley's 4-H member. Robin is the daughter of Gordon and Dianna Shive and a 4-H beef exhibitor for eight years.

Some three dozen 4-H beef club members took part in theYork Fair's popular market steer show with champions named in four weight categories. Heading up the lightweight division were Jason Baer of Glen Rock with the champion and Ed Livingston of Dover with the reserve champion.

Jason Baer snagged a second championship rosette in the mediumweight class, topping the reserve owned by Shawn Waltimyer of Airville. In the reserve light heavyweight class, behind Calderazzo's grand champion, was Kerri Kohr's steer. Robin Shive topped the heavyweight division with Susan Eisenhour of Wellsville taking the reserve spot.

4-H beef breeding

Sandy Eisenhour's open class supreme champion female handilty took top honors in the 4-H beef breeding Angus division, as well. The 17-year-old Wellsville exhibitor's March, 1988, heifer bested the reserve cyhampion Angus female exhibited by Robin Shive.

Siblings Matthew and Jennifer Altobelli of Dover shared top honors in the Hereford division. The pair exhibited March, 1988, sisters by Top Priority.

Matthew, 10, took his first champion honors in this, his second year of 4-H showring competition. Jennifer, 12, is a third-year 4-H'er. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Altobelli.

A Seven Valleys brother-sister duo topped the Simmental division. Joyce Stough's late junior yearling heifer claimed the championship over Jay's junior yearling entry.

Showmanship, fitting

This year's York Fair was a winning one for Sandy Eisenhour as she went on to capture the 4-H beef showman championship.

The daughter of Jim and Brenda Eisenhour, Sandy has been lending a hand at beef shows since she was a youngster.

Reserve champion showman was Jennifer Calderazzo of York. In addition to her own 4-H animals, Jennifer assists in showing the family's GH2 Angus herd entries at numerous shows.

Also placing first in their showmaship age categories were, Suzanne Bishard of York and Matthew Altobelli.

Suzanne Bishard also was named fitting champion at the fair, her first win of the honor in four years of 4-H competition.

In preparation, the 12-year-old has been brushing her steer almost every day, training the hair of the coat to lay properly and stand up along the top line. Suzanne does all her own fitting, from initial washings to teasing the tail into the familiar ball shape. She is the daughter of Brad and Lois Bishard of Seven Valleys.

The reserve fitting champion was Jennifer Altobelli. In separate, special fitting classes, three 4-H'ers took age division honors. Sandy Eisenhour was the senior winner, Jason Stein of Wrightsville was the junior winner, and Philip Baer of Brodbecks was the rookie winner.

Black Beauties Win York Fair Supreme Beef Titles

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Black proved to be both beautiful and judge pleasing at the York Fair's open class beef competition, with Angus winners taking both supreme champion honors.

The supreme champion female banner went to 17-year-old Sandy Eisenhour for her March Angus junior yearling heifer. The Wellsville 4-H'er is the daughter of James and Brenda Eisenhour and has been exhibiting beef cattle throughout her 4-H career.

The winner took top honors in the Angus division, then topped a half-dozen other breed contenders for the coveted award on a nod from Connecticut beef breeder Jim Hough, who judged the day-long breeding beef contests.

The heifer was purchased by Sandy as a calf from Angus breeder Tom Bross's T&J Farm in Big Mount. Shown earlier this year at the Farm Show, the heifer had topped her class. Her supreme banner was the first such ever won by Sandy.

Supreme champion bull honors remained in York County as well, going to GH2 Villanova, the April, 1987, Angus division winner. Homebred by the Joseph Calderazzo family's GH2 Angus farm, Villanova is a Valedictorian out of Foolish Pride, according to herdsman Brenda Walter.

Earlier in the show season the "typey" bull took reserve champion calf honors at the Farm Show and reserve junior champion at the July Pennsylvania Breeders' Show.

Angus Division

Eisenhour took both junior and grand champion female honors with her supreme champion junior yearling, with reserve honors going to Robin Shive of Seven Valleys for her second-place homebred March junior yearling.

Summer champion winner was Susan Eisenhour of Wellsville over the reserve exhibited by Jennifer Calderazzo. South Branch Angus took champion heifer calf, topping Jennifer Calderazzo, who took the runner-up spot.

Grand and junior champion Angus bull was the supreme champion entry of GH2. Senior champion and reserve grand ribbons went to the two-year-old bull exhibited by South Branch Farms of York. Reserve junior champion bull was exhibited by Big Oaks Farm in Dillsburg. Bull calf honors went to RJR Angus of Seven Valleys, who had the champion, while Kathy Wise of Spring Grove was the reserve champion.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.
